To the Teacher

Non-native English speakers who enroll in a college or university want to develop writing skills that will lead to academic success. This book is a combination text and workbook. Its focused lessons, specific exercises, and ample opportunities for practice are designed to help your students gain confidence in writing academic prose.

This book is designed to take university-level students with an intermediate ability in English as a second language from paragraph writing through essay writing. The course combines a process approach to writing (where students work on invention, peer response, editing, and writing multiple drafts) with a pragmatic approach to teaching the basics of writing (with direct instruction on such elements as topic sentences, thesis statements, and outlines).

The Introduction presents process writing to students. The tasks in the main units are graded. Students first work on recognizing and identifying key writing structures from model paragraphs and essays. Then they manipulate the structures in short, manageable tasks. Finally, they apply the structures to their own writing. There are opportunities for students to work independently, with a partner, and with a group. The exercises can be done either in class or as homework. Critical thinking is emphasized, so that students become aware of the impact of their choice of words, sentences, and organizational techniques on the effectiveness of their writing. The focus throughout is on academic writing—the type of writing used in university courses and exams in English-speaking institutions of higher learning.

In Units 1–6, students analyze and write the types of paragraphs that commonly occur in academic contexts. They practice writing topic sentences and concluding sentences, organizing the paragraph coherently, and using appropriate vocabulary, grammar, and transitional devices in the paragraph body. In Unit 7, students write two-paragraph papers, in preparation for longer assignments. In Units 8–11, students apply what they have learned about paragraphs to essay writing. They work on developing and supporting a central thesis, organizing an outline from which to write, and writing effective introductions and conclusions. Unit 12 discusses strategies for timed essay writing, including understanding standard instructions, time-management techniques, and methods for organizing information.

Included in the Student Book are samples of the development of an essay from brainstorming to the final draft. There is also a guide to punctuation and examples of a letter requesting information, a personal essay of the type commonly required in college applications, resumes and addressed envelopes.

The Teacher's Guide supports the instructor by offering teaching suggestions, a discussion of marking and grading writing, ideas for supplemental activities for each unit, and photocopiable exercises and activities.

To the Student

Writing is a very important part of your university study. You will write assignments that may range from one paragraph to several pages long, and will write answers on tests and exams that may be a few sentences long or a complete essay.

Academic writing in English may be different not only from academic writing in your own language, but even from other writing in English. The purpose of this book is to help you recognize and produce the sort of writing that you will do for your university courses.

During this course, you will have many opportunities to study and discuss examples of English academic writing. Naturally, you will also have many opportunities to discuss your own academic writing and the writing of your classmates. You will learn how important the reader is to the writer, and how to express clearly and directly what you mean to communicate. We hope that what you learn in this course will help you throughout your academic studies and beyond.

You should come to your writing class every day with energy and a willingness to work and learn. Your instructor and your classmates have much to share with you, and you have much to share with them. By coming to class with your questions, taking chances and trying new ways, and expressing your ideas in another language, you will add not only to your own world but to the world of those around you. Good luck!

Introduction: Process Writing

In this unit, you will ...

- learn about process writing, the writing method used in most English-speaking university classes.

The writing process

These words are important for understanding the writing process. Match each word with the correct definition.

- | | |
|--------------|---|
| a. step | 1. to check a piece of writing for errors |
| b. topic | 2. a group of related sentences |
| c. gather | 3. one thing in a series of things you do |
| d. organize | 4. subject; what the piece of writing is about |
| e. paragraph | 5. to change or correct a piece of writing |
| f. essay | 6. a short piece of writing, at least three paragraphs long |
| g. proofread | 7. to arrange in a clear, logical way |
| h. edit | 8. to find and collect together |

The six steps of the writing process

2 Read about the writing process. These are the steps you will practice in this book.

Process writing

When we write, we do more than just put words together to make sentences. Good writers go through several steps to produce a piece of writing.

Pre-writing

STEP ONE: Choose a topic. Before you write, your teacher gives you a specific assignment or some ideas of what to write about. If not, choose your topic yourself.

STEP TWO: Gather ideas. When you have a topic, think about what you will write about that topic.

STEP THREE: Organize. Decide which of the ideas you want to use and where you want to use them. Choose which idea to talk about first, which to talk about next, and which to talk about last.

Drafting

STEP FOUR: Write. Write your paragraph or essay from start to finish. Use your notes about your ideas and organization.

Reviewing and revising

STEP FIVE: Review structure and content. Check what you have written. Read your writing silently to yourself or aloud, perhaps to a friend. Look for places where you can add more information, and check to see if you have any unnecessary information. Ask a classmate to exchange papers with you. Your classmate reads your paper, and you read his or hers. Getting a reader's opinion is a good way to know if your writing is clear and effective. Learning to give opinions about other people's writing helps you to improve your own. You may want to go on to step six now and revise the structure and content of your paper before you proofread it.

Rewriting

STEP SIX:
Revise structure and content. Use your ideas from step five to re-write your text, making improvements to the structure and content. You might need to explain something more clearly, or add more details. You may even need to change your organization so that your paper is more logical. Together, steps five and six can be called editing.

Proofread. Read your paper again. This time, check your spelling and grammar and think about the words you have chosen to use.

Make final corrections. Check that you have corrected the errors you discovered in steps five and six and make any other changes you want to make. Now your text is finished!

Steps five and six can be repeated many times.

Pre-Writing: Getting Ready to Write

In this unit, you will learn how to ...

- choose and narrow a topic.
- gather ideas.
- edit ideas.

➤ What is pre-writing?

Before you begin writing, you decide what you are going to write about. Then you plan what you are going to write. This process is called pre-writing.

Choosing and narrowing a topic

➤ How to choose a topic for a paragraph

A paragraph is a group of five to ten sentences that give information about a topic. Before you write, you must choose a topic for your paragraph.

- Choose a topic that isn't too narrow (limited, brief). A narrow topic will not have enough ideas to write about. The ages of my brothers and sisters is too narrow. You can't write very much about it.
- Choose a topic that isn't too broad (general). A broad topic will have too many ideas for just one paragraph. Most paragraphs are five to ten sentences long. Schools is too general. There are thousands of things you could say about it.

A student could narrow this topic by choosing one aspect of schools to discuss.

schools ➔ high schools in my country popular school clubs university entrance exams

I Choose three topics from this list. Narrow each of the three down to a paragraph topic. Then compare with a partner.

- a. holidays
- b. friends
- c. my country
- d. dancing
- e. cars

Brainstorming

➤ What is brainstorming?

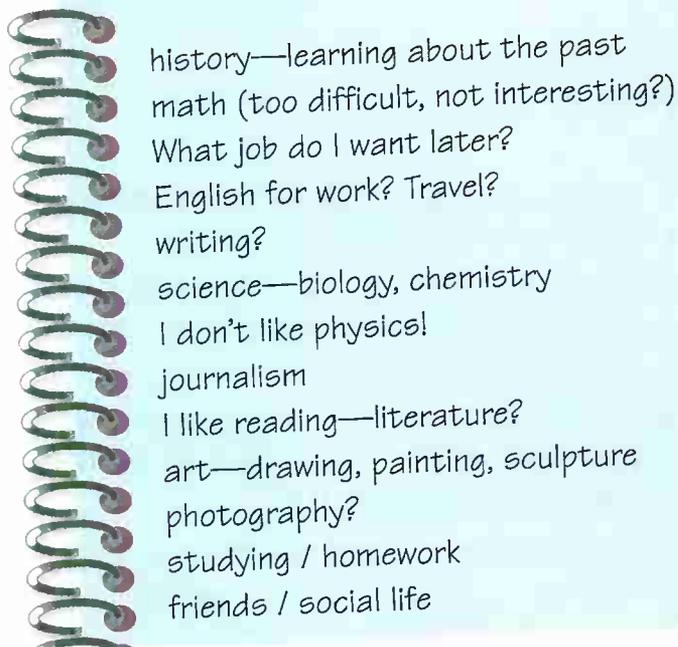

Brainstorming is a way of gathering ideas about a topic. Think of a storm: thousands of drops of rain, all coming down together. Now, imagine thousands of ideas “raining” down onto your paper! When you brainstorm, write down every idea that comes to you. Don’t worry now about whether the ideas are good or silly, useful or not. You can decide that later. Right now, you are gathering as many ideas as you can.

You will learn three types of brainstorming in this unit: making a list, freewriting, and mapping.

➤ Making a list

Write single words, phrases, or sentences that are connected to your topic. Look at this list a student made when brainstorming ideas to write about her topic, “What should I study in college?”

2 Work with a partner or small group. Choose one of these topics. List as many ideas as you can in five minutes.

- a. teenage fashions
- b. things to do at the beach
- c. driving a motorcycle

3 Work alone. Choose a topic from exercise 1 on page 5, and list as many ideas as you can in five minutes.

Freewriting

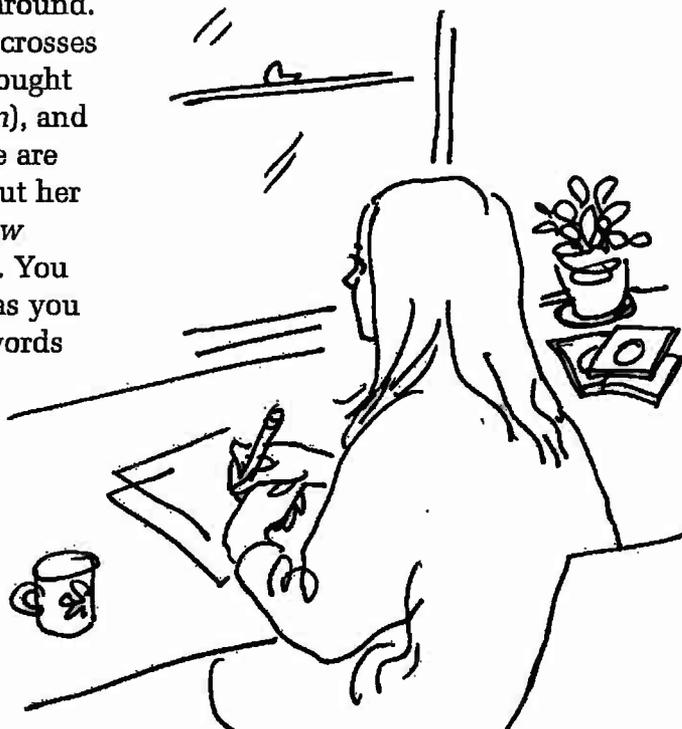

When you freewrite, you write whatever comes into your head about your topic, without stopping. Most freewriting exercises are short—just five or ten minutes.

Freewriting helps you practice fluency (writing quickly and easily). When you freewrite, you do not need to worry about accuracy (having correct grammar and spelling). Don't check your dictionary when you freewrite. Don't stop if you make a mistake. Just keep writing!

Here is an example of a student's freewriting:

There are too so many subjects to study at university, it is difficult to choose one for my major. I've always made good grades in math, but I don't like it very much. I don't like physical physics or any science very much. Writing—I've always liked writing. Would journalism be a good course to take? Newspapers have pictures, too, so maybe photography would be good. I'm maybe definitely looking forward to meeting new friends at university. And what about reading? Reading is a part of any course, but literature includes a lot of reading and it probably includes a lot of writing, too.

Notice how the writer's ideas jump around. When she makes a mistake, she just crosses it out and continues writing. One thought (writing) leads to another (journalism), and then to another (photography). There are some details that are not exactly about her topic (looking forward to meeting new friends), but that's OK in freewriting. You want to get as many ideas on paper as you can. You can take out unnecessary words and sentences later.

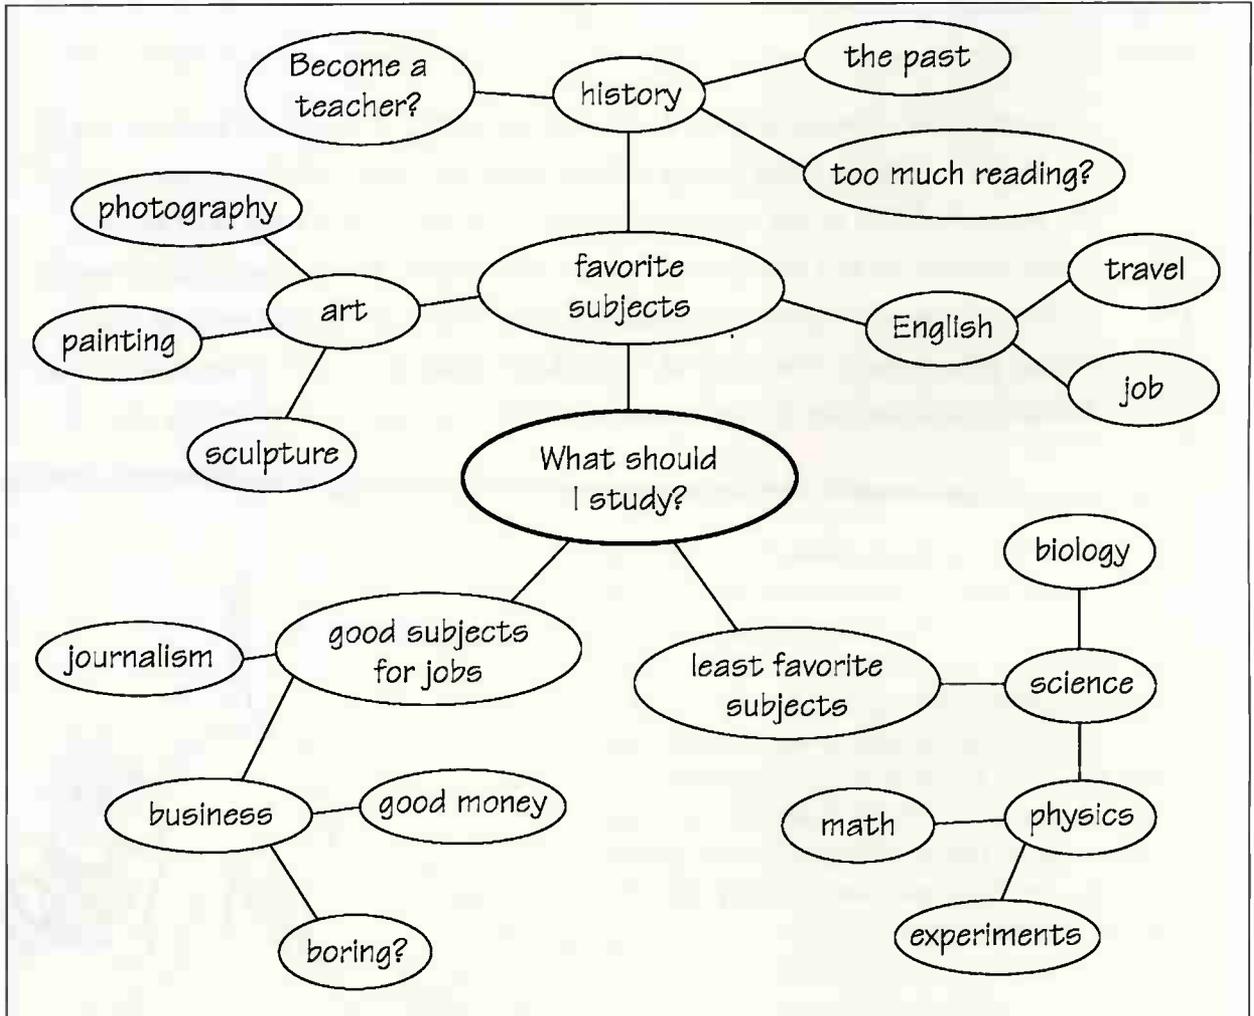

- 4 Choose one of the narrowed topics you thought of for exercise 1 on page 5. Practice freewriting for five minutes. Remember, do not stop, erase, or go back. Just write as much as you can.

Mapping

To make a map, use a whole sheet of paper, and write your topic in the middle, with a circle around it. Then put the next idea in a circle above or below your topic, and connect the circles with lines. The lines show that the two ideas are related.

The example below shows a map of “What should I study in college?” The writer connected favorite subjects to the main idea. Art and English are connected to favorite subjects to show that they are related.

5 Choose another narrowed topic you thought of for exercise 1 on page 5. Make a map in five minutes. Share your map with a partner. Explain how the circles are related to each other.

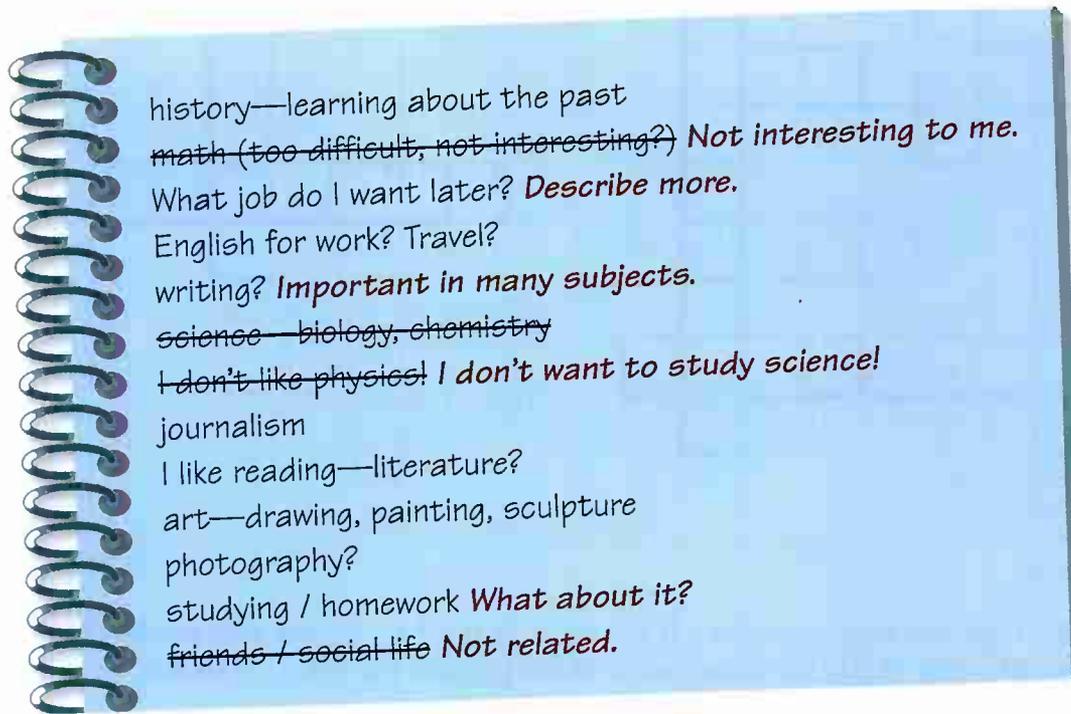

What's the best way to brainstorm?

There is no best method of brainstorming. Some writers like to use lists because they don't have to write complete sentences. Some writers like freewriting because they can write quickly and ideas come easily. Some writers prefer mapping because they can easily see the relationship between ideas. Experiment with all three methods, and then choose the one that works best for you.

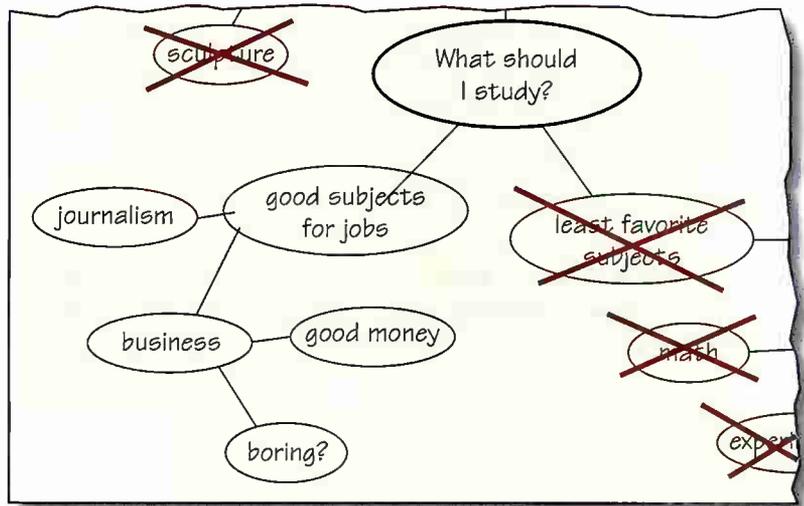

Editing

How to edit

After you have gathered plenty of ideas, you will need to go back and edit them. This is the time to choose which ideas are the most interesting, and which are the most relevant to (important or necessary for) your topic. Of course, you can still add new ideas if you think of something else while you are re-reading your list. For example, the student writing “What should I study in college?” edited her list like this:

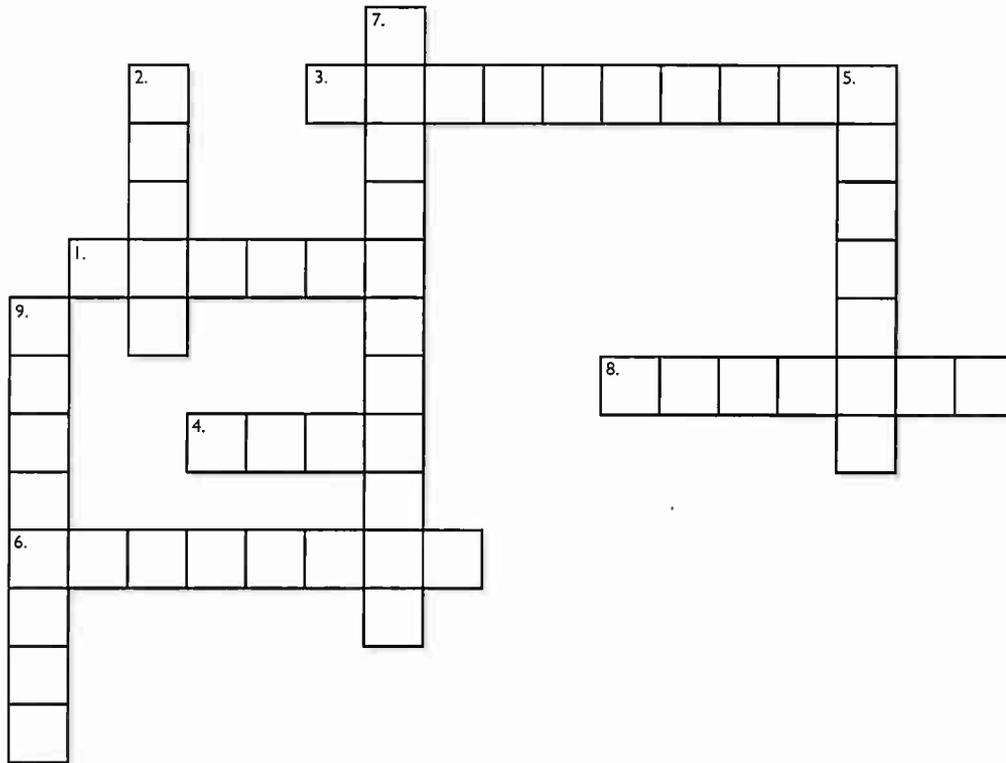

To edit freewriting, cross out sentences or parts of sentences that aren't related. You can add more ideas in the margin or add more sentences at the bottom. To edit a map, cross out circles that don't belong, and add new ones if you get more ideas. You might also change the lines you have drawn.

- 6 Look at the list you made in exercise 3 on page 6, the freewriting you did in exercise 4 on page 7, or the map you made in exercise 5 on page 8. Edit your brainstorming. Show your work to a partner. Explain how you edited your brainstorming.

Review

7 Complete the crossword puzzle.

Each paragraph has only one topic. If the topic is too ¹ n___, you will not be able to write enough about it. On the other hand, if the topic is too ² b___, you will have too many ideas for just one paragraph.

After you choose a topic, you will need to ³ b___ some ideas to write about in your paragraph. One way to do this is to make a ⁴ l___. Another way of brainstorming is ⁵ m___. After you have written down many ideas, you can go back and decide which ones are the most interesting and the most ⁶ r___ to your topic.

⁷ F___ is a useful way to help you write more easily and naturally. In this kind of writing, you are working on ⁸ f___, and not ⁹ a___.

8 Look again at the note about brainstorming at the bottom of page 8. Brainstorm a list of pros (good things) and cons (bad things) about each of the three methods of brainstorming.

2 The Structure of a Paragraph

In this unit, you will learn ...

- the definition of a paragraph.
- the parts of a paragraph.
- how to identify and write topic sentences.

➤ What is a paragraph?

As you learned in Unit 1, a paragraph is a group of sentences about a single topic. Together, the sentences of the paragraph explain the writer's main idea (most important idea) about the topic. In academic writing, a paragraph is often between five and ten sentences long, but it can be longer or shorter, depending on the topic. The first sentence of a paragraph is usually indented (moved in) a few spaces.

Understanding a paragraph

- I Read this paragraph. It is the beginning of an article about Indonesia in a student newspaper. Then answer the questions.

Indonesia—Something Interesting at Every Turn

By Ken Jones

If you dream of traveling to a country with beautiful tropical islands, wonderful food, beautiful places to go sightseeing, and very friendly people, you should visit Indonesia. If you look at the map, the first thing you notice is that Indonesia is made up of islands—more than 17,000 of them. Traveling between islands by boat is great fun. Just like the many islands, there are also many different groups of people living in Indonesia. In fact, there are around 300 different ethnic groups! Most Indonesians are Malay, but others are Javanese, Balinese, Chinese, or Indian. All these groups together make Indonesian culture very interesting. Finally, Indonesia has many cities and historical sights to see. Jakarta, the capital city, is fast becoming a modern center of commerce, yet the ancient temples on the island of Bali show that the country's old traditions are still alive. All the people, places, and things to see definitely make Indonesia a great place for a vacation.

Paragraph organization

☞ What makes a paragraph?

A paragraph has three basic parts:

1. The topic sentence. This is the main idea of the paragraph. It is usually the first sentence of the paragraph, and it is the most general sentence of the paragraph.
2. The supporting sentences. These are sentences that talk about or explain the topic sentence. They are more detailed ideas that follow the topic sentence.
3. The concluding sentence. This may be found as the last sentence of a paragraph. It can finish a paragraph by repeating the main idea or just giving a final comment about the topic.

- 2 Read the paragraph about Indonesia in exercise 1 on page 11 again. Circle the topic sentence, put one line under the supporting sentences, and put two lines under the concluding sentence.
- 3 Put a check (✓) next to the group of sentences that makes a good paragraph. Why are the other groups of sentences not good paragraphs?

My best friend has many different hobbies, such as skiing, cooking, and playing the piano, and she is very good at all of these activities. For example, she has played the piano for ten years and has won in three piano competitions. She also likes to spend time traveling, and she has been to many different countries in the world. She grew up speaking Spanish and English, but now she can also speak French and Italian. I like my best friend very much.

Classes in literature are useful no matter what job you intend to have when you finish university. Books are about life. People who study literature learn the skill of reading carefully and understanding characters, situations, and relationships. This kind of understanding can be useful to teachers and business people alike. Literature classes also require a lot of writing, so they help students develop the skill of clear communication. Of course, a professional writer needs to have this skill, but it is an equally important skill for an engineer. Finally, reading literature helps develop an understanding of many different points of view. Reading a novel by a Russian author, for example, will help a reader learn more about Russian culture. For anyone whose job may bring them into contact with Russian colleagues, this insight can help encourage better cross-cultural understanding. Studying literature is studying life, so it is relevant to almost any job you can think of.

One good way to learn another language is to live in a country where that language is used. When you live in another country, the language is around you all the time, so you can learn to listen to and speak it more easily.

The topic and the main idea

☞ The topic sentence ...

- usually comes first in a paragraph.
- gives the writer's main idea or opinion about the topic and helps the reader understand what the paragraph is going to talk about.

4 Circle the topic of the sentence. Underline the main idea about the topic.

- Indonesia is a very interesting country to visit.
- Dogs make excellent pets.
- A really good place to study is the library at my school.
- Learning a second language creates job opportunities.
- Soccer is my favorite sport because it is exciting to watch.
- One of the most valuable tools for students is the computer.
- My sister and I have very different personalities.
- Summer is the best time to travel in my country.
- My hometown is a friendly place to live.

5 For each of these paragraphs, choose the sentence from the list below that would make the best topic sentence.

 When Ken wanted to enter a good university, he studied hard to pass the examination. The first time he took the exam, he did not do well, and he felt very discouraged. But he knew he wanted to study at that university, so he studied more. The next year, he tried taking the exam again. The second time, he did very well, and now he is studying engineering. I believe Ken is a good role model for me, and he has taught me that never giving up is the best way to succeed.

1. One of my closest friends, named Ken, is a person I can trust.
2. My friend Ken is a very successful student.
3. I admire my friend Ken because he doesn't give up.

b.

..... Many children begin learning to play soccer when they are very young. You often can see them playing at school or in the streets around their houses. In high school, students may play soccer on a team and compete in tournaments. If a player is very good, he might go on to play for a professional team. People in my country love to watch soccer on television and also go to the games whenever they can. Many people have a favorite team or player, and everyone loves to talk about matches and competitions. Soccer is really like a national sport in my country.

1. I love to play soccer, and I hope I can become a professional player one day.
2. There are many popular sports in my country, but the most popular sport is soccer.
3. Soccer is a difficult sport to learn to play well.

When I begin working, I would like to have the opportunity to travel, and travel is often an important part of a journalist's job. Finally, I am also interested in photography, and pictures are very important in journalism.*

3 The Development of a Paragraph

In this unit, you will learn ...

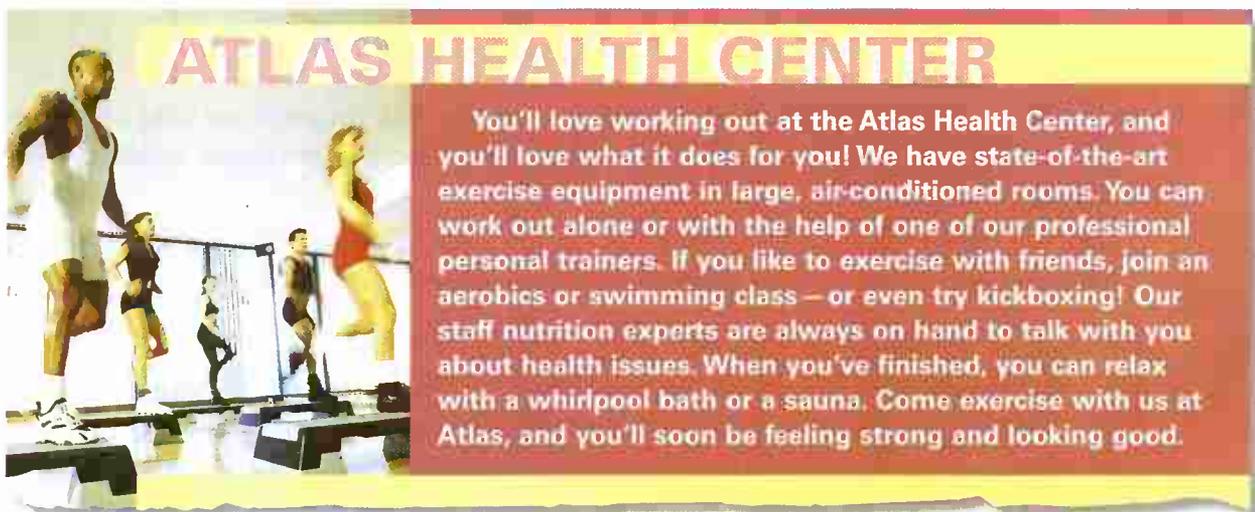

- methods of paragraph support and development.
- how to write concluding sentences.
- how to do peer editing.

➤ Paragraph development

After you have chosen a topic and written a topic sentence, you develop your main idea by adding more information to explain what you mean. This unit will explain three common ways to develop a paragraph: giving details, giving an explanation, and giving an example.

Details

- 1 Details are specific points that tell more about a general statement. Read this brochure from a health club. Notice the details that help develop the paragraph.

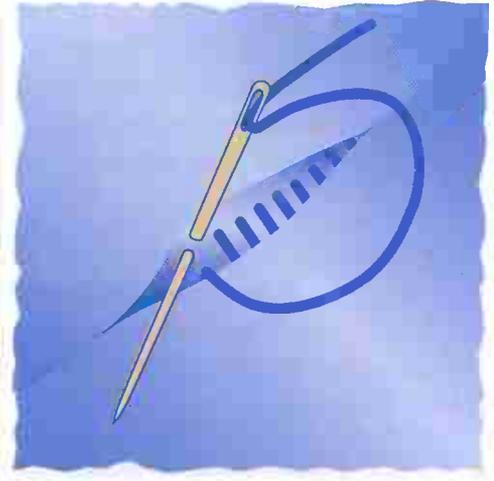

- 2 In the paragraph above, underline the topic sentence. Below, list the details used to support the topic sentence. Compare your answers with a partner.

- a.
- b.
- c.
- d.
- e.
- f.

Explanation

- 3 An explanation tells what something means or how something works. In this paragraph, underline the topic sentence. Then answer the questions.

"A stitch in time saves nine." My mother, who likes to sew, used this simple saying to teach me the value of working on problems when they are still small. Originally, the saying referred to sewing—if you have a small hole in a shirt, you can repair it with one stitch. But if you wait, the hole will get larger, and it will take you nine stitches. This simple sentence reminds me to take care of small problems before they become big problems.

- a. What is the writer trying to explain?
- b. Is she successful? Do you understand the explanation? yes / no

Example

- 4 An example is a specific person, place, thing, or event that supports an idea or statement. This paragraph includes an example from the writer's own experience. Underline the topic sentence.

Even when a first date is a disaster, a couple can still become good friends. For example, my first date with Greg was terrible. I thought he was coming to pick me up at 6:30, but instead he came at 6:00. I didn't have time to fix my hair, and my make-up looked sloppy. When I got into his car, I scraped my leg against the car door and tore my stocking. Next, he took me to an Italian restaurant for dinner, and I accidentally dropped some spaghetti on my shirt. Then we went to a movie. Greg asked me which movie I wanted to see, and I chose a romantic comedy. He fell asleep during the movie, and I got angry. Now that Greg and I are good friends, we can look back and laugh at how terrible that first date was!

- 5 Why do you think the writer chose to use an example to develop the paragraph in exercise 4 above? Write your reason here, and then compare with a partner.

Choosing a means of support

6 Would you develop each of these topics with details, an explanation, or an example? Explain your choices to a partner. (More than one answer is possible.)

- a. what freedom means to me
- b. an unusual vacation
- c. weddings in my country
- d. why I don't like to swim
- e. the ideal job

7 Develop your own paragraph. Look back at the topic sentences you wrote in Unit 2, exercise 6 on page 15. Follow these steps.

Step one: Choose one that you would like to develop into a paragraph.

Step two: Brainstorm some ideas using any method you like.

Step three: Develop your paragraph with supporting sentences.

Step four: Exchange paragraphs with a partner. Say what kind of support your partner used. Could your partner tell what kind of support you used?

Concluding sentences

➤ How to end a paragraph

The final sentence of a paragraph is called the concluding sentence. It sums up the main points or restates the main idea in a different way. A sentence that sums up the paragraph reminds the reader of what the writer's main idea and supporting points were. A sentence that restates the main idea should give the same information in a slightly different way, perhaps by using different words or by using different word order. A concluding sentence should not introduce a new point.

8 Read the example paragraphs in exercises 3 and 4 on page 18 again. Underline the concluding sentences. Do the concluding sentences sum up the information in the paragraph or restate the main idea?

9 Work with a partner. Take turns reading these paragraphs aloud. Is the main idea developed by details, an explanation, or an example? Is there a concluding sentence? Circle yes or no. If there is no concluding sentence, write one with your partner.

Even simple study habits can improve your grades. In college, I learned how important it is to get enough sleep. When you are well-rested, it is easier to learn. Research shows that when people don't get enough sleep, their memories aren't as effective. If students are really tired, they might even fall asleep in class! It's easy to see how getting enough sleep can improve your performance in school.

- a. means of support:
- concluding sentence? yes / no

My favorite class is psychology. I enjoy learning about the ways people think and behave. I also am interested in learning about the way children's minds develop.

- b. means of support:
- concluding sentence? yes / no

I am too nervous to sing karaoke songs with my friends. The last time I tried was on my birthday, when my friends took me to a karaoke club. I told my friends I didn't want to sing, but they encouraged me until I said yes. When I stood up in front of the microphone, I was so scared, I felt dizzy. It was hard to hear the music, and my mouth was too dry to make a sound. I just stood there until a friend jumped up next to me and finished the song.

- c. means of support:
- concluding sentence? yes / no

I will never eat dinner at The Little French Bistro again. The restaurant is not very clean. You can see dust in the corners and on the shelves. The food is expensive, but the portions are small. I never feel full after I've finished eating. In addition, the waiters are not very friendly. For these reasons, I will not visit that restaurant again.

- d. means of support:
- concluding sentence? yes / no

For me, a friend is someone who accepts you the way you are. A friend doesn't want you to change your personality or your style. I like people who don't care if the people they are with are wearing popular clothes or listening to trendy music.

- e. means of support:
- concluding sentence? yes / no

Peer editing

☞ What is peer editing?

Showing your work to another student is a very useful way to improve your writing. This is called peer editing. You read your partner's writing and your partner reads yours. You comment on your partner's writing and your partner comments on yours. You might talk together, write comments on a sheet that your instructor gives you, or write directly on your partner's paper.

Here is the first draft of the paragraph about the writer's first date with Greg. The writer has shown the paragraph to another student, who wrote some comments.

Topic sentence	Even when a first date is a disaster, a couple can still
Developed by example	become good friends. For example, my first date with Can you make this stronger? Greg wasn't very good . I thought he was coming to pick When did he come? me up at 6:30, but he didn't . When I got into his car, Explain how you tore it. Tell more about this. I tore my stocking . Next, I accidentally got some spaghetti What kind of movie? How did you feel about that? on my shirt. Then we went to a movie . He fell asleep
Concluding sentence	during the movie. Now that Greg and I are good friends, Good! The same as the topic sentence we can look back and laugh because even when a first date is a disaster, a couple can still become good friends.

10 Look at the handwritten comments on the paragraph above, and answer these questions with a partner.

- How many of the comments are statements? How many are questions?
- Why do you think the peer editor sometimes wrote questions instead of statements? For example, why did she write "Can you make this stronger?" instead of "Please make this stronger"?
- Why do you think the peer editor marked the topic sentence and the concluding sentence?
- Do you agree with the peer editor's comments?
- What do you think the writer will do next?
- Go back to exercise 4 on page 18 and read the paragraph about the date again. Did the writer use the reader's suggestions?

➤ Why do writers use peer editing?

There are two reasons for peer editing. The first is to get a reader's opinion about your writing. A reader can tell you that ...

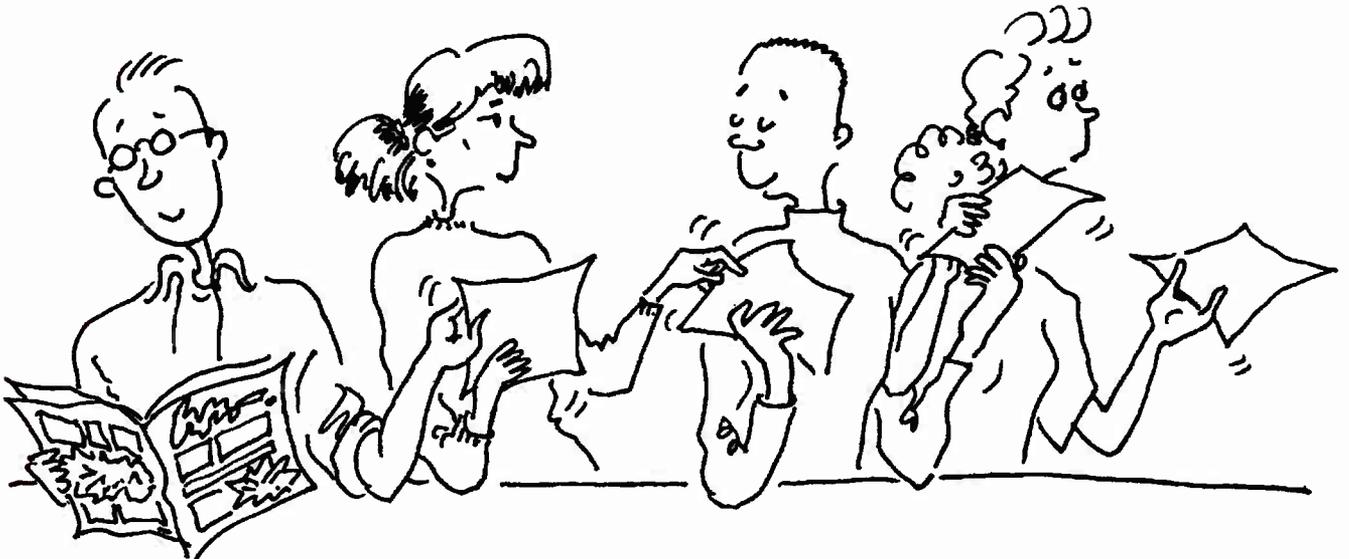

- you should add more details or explanation.
- something is not organized clearly.
- you have some information that is not relevant.
- there is something that is hard to understand.

These comments will help you write your next draft.

The second reason to share writing with others is for you to read more examples of writing. Other people will have had experiences that you haven't. They may show you fresh ways of writing about experiences. Reading their paragraphs and essays can give you good ideas to use yourself in the future.

➤ How do I peer edit?

- Read your partner's paper several times. The first time, just read from the beginning through to the end. Ask yourself, "What is it about? What is the writer's purpose?"
- On your second reading, go more slowly and look at specific parts of the writing and make notes.
 - Look for topic sentences and concluding sentences.
 - Note places where you have trouble understanding something, where there seems to be unnecessary information, or where there is not enough information.
 - Let the writer know which parts of the paper are especially strong or interesting.
 - Ask questions. This is a good way to let the writer know where he or she could add more information.
 - Circle or underline words, phrases, and sentences that you wish to comment on.
- Don't look for grammar or spelling mistakes. Pay attention just to the content and organization of the paper.

Giving constructive suggestions

11 For each pair of sentences, check (✓) the one that you feel would be most helpful to the writer. Share your answers with a partner, and explain your choices.

- a. This is a weak topic sentence.
 Can you make this topic sentence stronger?
- b. Did you remember a concluding sentence?
 Why didn't you write a concluding sentence?
- c. You didn't write enough.
 Please explain more about your vacation. Where did you stay? What did you do during the day?
- d. I'm not sure what this part means.
 This must be wrong. I can't understand it.
- e. I think this sentence should come before the next one.
 Your organization is pretty bad. You'd better change it.
- f. Why do you keep saying the same thing over and over again?
 I think these two sentences are really saying the same thing.
- g. I can't understand why you're talking about your sister.
 Your paragraph is about your brother, but this sentence is about your sister. Are you sure it's relevant?
- h. This is a good paragraph. Nice job! I wish I could write as well as you.
 I like your topic sentence because it has a strong main idea. Your example is funny. I wish I could meet your brother!

12 Read this paragraph aloud with a partner. Then peer edit it together. Then join another pair and share your comments.

My father is a teacher. I admire him a lot. I am considering becoming a teacher, too. My older brother works for a big company. My father really loves learning, so he is a natural teacher. My father always helped me with my homework. I guess I will become a teacher.

- 13 Write a second draft of the paragraph in exercise 12 on page 23. Use the comments you and your partner made. Then exchange paragraphs with your partner. Discuss how your versions are different from the original. Do you think the second drafts are better? Why or why not?

Review

- 14 Read these statements. Write T (true) or F (false). If the statement is false, change it to make it true. Then compare your answers with a partner.
- a. Details give more specific information than the topic sentence.
 - b. An explanation tells what something is or how it works.
 - c. A detail is usually a short, personal story.
 - d. The concluding sentence uses the same words as the topic sentence.
 - e. The concluding sentence should finish the paragraph with a new idea.
 - f. A peer editor should mark any spelling and grammatical mistakes carefully.
 - g. A peer editor should give some positive comments.
 - h. Peer editing helps the writer, not the reader.
 - i. If a peer editor can't understand something that you wrote, then you know he or she isn't a very good reader.
 - j. A peer editor should be able to identify your topic sentence, main idea, and concluding sentence easily.

4 Descriptive and Process Paragraphs

In this unit, you will learn about ...

- descriptive paragraphs and reasons for writing them.
- organizing and writing descriptive paragraphs using adjectives and prepositions.
- process paragraphs and reasons for writing them.
- using transition words to write a process paragraph.

➤ Describing people, places, and processes

A descriptive paragraph explains how someone or something looks or feels. A process paragraph explains how something is done.

Descriptive paragraphs

➤ Using adjectives

Adjectives are words that tell us how things look, feel, taste, sound, or smell. Adjectives also describe how you feel about something. Here are a few common adjectives.

shape and size	atmosphere	how you feel	appearance
large / small	cozy	amazed	colorful wide / narrow	comfortable	surprised	unforgettable round	warm / cool	happy	beautiful
rectangular	cold / hot	nostalgic	unattractive

A description of a place may answer some of these questions:

- Where is the place?
- How big is it?
- How warm or cold is the place?
- How does the place make you feel? Why?
- What things can you see in this place?
- What colors do you see?

I List some words to describe these places.

2 Read this description from a travel brochure. Circle the adjectives.

Niagara Falls, a popular destination for thousands of visitors each year, is a beautiful place. When you stand at the edge and look down at the 188 feet of white waterfalls, you feel amazed at the power of nature. The tree-lined river that leads into the falls is fast-moving, pouring over the edge of the falls and crashing to the bottom in a loud roar. If you want to experience the falls close up, go for a boat ride. You'll come near enough to look up at the roaring streams of water flowing over the edge and feel the cool mist that rises as the water hits the rocks below. Seeing Niagara Falls is an unforgettable experience!

Describing the place around you

➤ Using prepositions

Prepositions tell us how a space is organized. These are some common and useful prepositions and phrasal prepositions:

in front of / in back of, behind on top of / on the bottom of

to the right of / to the left of

3 Read this paragraph that describes someone's favorite place. Underline the prepositions.

My favorite place to relax is a small café down the street from where I live. This café is on a small side street and as soon as you see it, you feel like going in. There are three windows on either side of the door, and each window has a small window box with brightly colored flowers. There is a small wooden door that opens into the café, and as you go in, you can see a dozen small tables all around the room. Even though it isn't a big place, its size makes it very cozy and comfortable. I always like to sit at a small table in the corner near the front windows. From here, I can look at the artwork on the walls and at the pretty green plants hanging from the ceiling. With a strong cup of coffee and a good book, I feel very happy and relaxed in my favorite café.

NIAGARA FALLS

- 4 Write six sentences to describe the place where you are right now. Try to answer some of the questions under “Using adjectives” on page 25. Use adjectives and prepositions.

Describing a character

○ Describing people

Here are some common adjectives for describing people:

Personality

happy, satisfied relaxed exciting nervous angry serious sad, depressed outgoing

Physical characteristics

big, large, tall small, tiny, short thin heavy strong weak brown-, black-, blond-, red-haired light-, dark-skinned

.....

.....

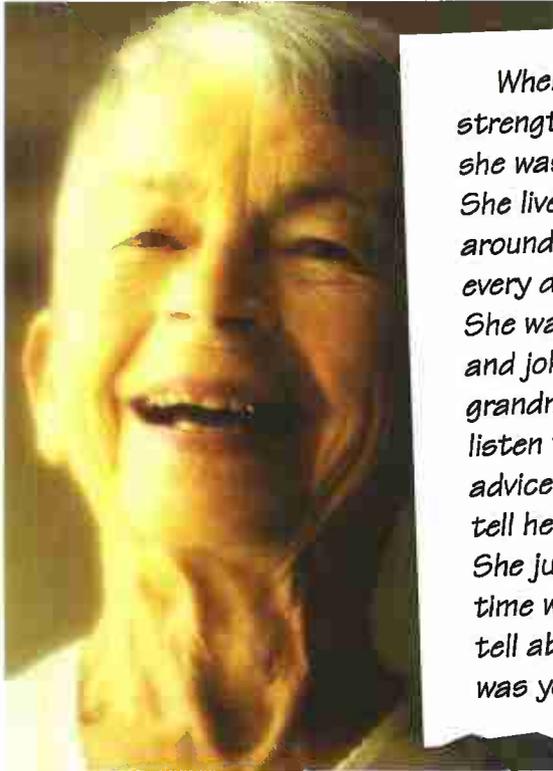

.....

A description of a person may answer some of the following questions:

- Who is the person?
 - What does the person do?
 - What does he or she look like?
 - How does the person act—how is his or her personality?
 - How does he or she make others feel?
- 5 With a partner, add at least two other adjectives to the two lists above.

- 6 Read this description written by a young woman about her grandmother. Circle the adjectives that describe the grandmother.

When I was young, I admired my grandmother for her strength and kindness. She was not very big. In fact, she was tiny and very thin. She was strong, though. She lived by herself and still did a lot of the chores around her house. When I was a child, I saw her almost every day, and she and I would talk about everything. She was a very happy person and was always smiling and joking, and she often made me laugh. My grandmother was also very patient, and she would listen to all of my problems. She gave me very good advice whenever I needed it. I didn't need to be afraid to tell her anything, because she never got mad at me. She just listened and tried to help. I also liked to spend time with her because she had interesting stories to tell about her own childhood and life experiences. When I was young, my grandmother was my favorite friend.

- 7 Describe one of these people. Write eight sentences. Try to answer three or more of the questions at the bottom of page 27. Use your imagination!

- 8 Think of a person or place you know well. Then brainstorm your ideas, narrow your topic, and write a descriptive paragraph.

Process paragraphs

- 9 A process paragraph is a description of how to do something. It explains the steps you need to follow to complete an activity. Read this recipe and do the exercises below.

Ingredients

two cups of brown rice one tablespoon of cooking oil three tablespoons of chili sauce three cloves of garlic
 one green pepper
 one red pepper
 one onion
 two tomatoes
 two green onions salt
 pepper

Mike's Brown Rice and Vegetables

Brown rice and vegetables is a simple and delicious meal to make. First, cook the rice, following the directions on the package. Then, cut the vegetables into one-inch pieces. Next, heat the oil, chili sauce, and garlic in a frying pan. After that, add the vegetables and fry them until they are soft, but still a little bit crunchy. Now it's time to stir in the cooked rice. After stirring the rice and vegetables together, add salt and pepper to your own taste. Finally, put the rice and vegetables into a large bowl and serve it with freshly chopped tomatoes and green onions on top. Now you are ready to enjoy your delicious brown rice and vegetables!

- Underline the topic sentence and the concluding sentence of the paragraph.
- List the steps for making brown rice and vegetables in the order you find them.
 - Cook the rice......
- How are the steps in the paragraph connected together? What words do you see that help show the sequence to follow? Underline them.

Transitions

☞ What are transitions?

Transitions are words that connect the steps in a paragraph. Transition words and phrases show the relationships between the ideas in a paragraph. They are not used between every sentence, but are used often enough to make the order clear. Here are some common transition words and phrases that show time order or the order of steps:

first, second, third, etc.	finally
next	the last step
then	before
after, after that	while

10 Add other transition words you know to the list above.

11 Choose appropriate transition words to connect the steps in this paragraph about preparing for a trip.

Planning a vacation abroad? Here are some suggestions to make your trip successful.

a., find out if you need a visa for the country that you want to visit. Make sure you have enough time to apply for it b. you buy your ticket.

c. you've found out about visas, you should research airfares and schedules.

d., look for the best flight for you. Remember, the cheapest flight may stop over in several cities and reduce the amount of time you have to spend at your destination. You might want to fly direct. e. you're researching flights, you can also ask your travel agent about getting a good deal on a hotel. It's a good idea to book your flight and hotel early if you're sure of your destination. If you haven't already done it, the f. step is to learn about places to visit, the weather, the food, and other details about the country. The Internet can be a very useful source of information. g., on the day of your flight, make sure you go to the airport at least two hours before your flight. Now you are ready to start enjoying your vacation!

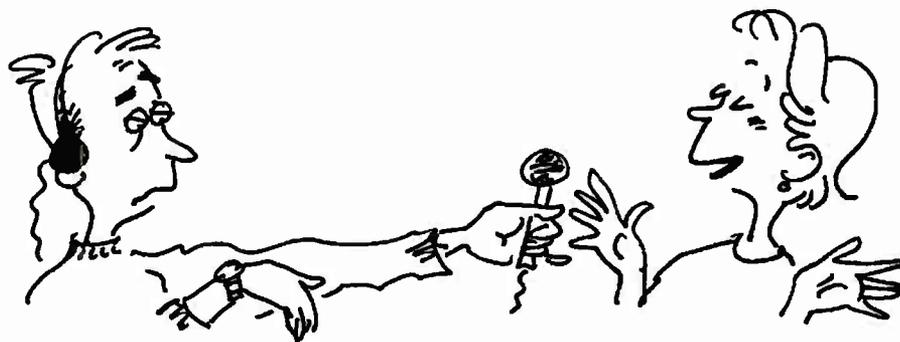

Ordering sentences

- 12 Order the steps to form a process paragraph. Write 1 next to the first step, 2 for the second step, and so on.

Introduction to linguistics: language-learning research project

Conduct an experiment to find out whether learners of English use English more correctly on a written test or in informal conversation.

- a. Next, make a written test that checks the grammar point you are researching. This could be a fill-in-the-blanks test, a correct-the-errors test, or another style. It should have at least ten questions, but it should not be too long.
- b. After giving the written test, interview each learner individually for about ten minutes. Try to make the interviews informal and friendly. Be sure to ask questions that will encourage learners to use the grammar point you are researching. Record the interviews. (Ask for learners' permission first!)
- c. After you have counted the errors, calculate the score as a percentage. Do this for the written test and the spoken interview.
- d. Next, read the tests and listen to the recordings. Make a note of how many times your chosen grammar point was used, and how many times it was used incorrectly. Do this for both the written test and the recorded conversation.
- e. Third, find about ten intermediate-level English learners who will agree to take your test. Arrange a time to give the test to each learner.
- f. Finally, prepare two graphs to compare your results. Did learners make more mistakes on the written test or while they were speaking?
- g. First, choose a common English grammar point you would like to use in your research. Ask your teacher for a suggestion if you need help choosing one.

- 13 Write a process paragraph about a topic that you know well. First, brainstorm all the steps that need to be followed. Then write the paragraph. Remember to use transitions.

Review

- 14 This paragraph describes a city park, but it doesn't have enough descriptive details. Imagine that you live next to a park. Rewrite the paragraph, adding description, to make it more interesting.

I live next to a park. The park is large and has trees and grass. There is a lake in the park where you can see people enjoying many activities. There are many places to sit and relax. There are many paths that you can walk on, and everywhere you walk you can see flowers. I really enjoy spending time in this park.

5 Opinion Paragraphs

In this unit, you will learn how to ...

- distinguish between fact and opinion.
- organize and write paragraphs expressing opinions and arguments.
- use transition words to express causality.
- use modal expressions to make recommendations.

○ Facts and opinions

A fact is a piece of information that is true: That movie was three hours long.

An opinion is an idea or belief about a particular subject: That movie was boring.

Writers use facts to support their opinions and to show why they hold their beliefs.

An opinion paragraph

1 Read this letter to the editor of a newspaper. Answer the questions.

Dear Editor,

More people should ride bicycles into town. Last year, seventy-three percent of all workers drove their own car to work. Car traffic in town is terrible, parking places are hard to find, and pollution from cars is a real problem. Citizens who want a cleaner, nicer place to live ought to try this non-polluting form of transportation. Cycling is good exercise, too! The city must not allow this problem to get worse. Instead, people should ride bicycles to work and school—and enjoy the health benefits of daily exercise.

Bill Adams
Bellingham

- a. What is the main idea of this paragraph? Circle the sentence.
- b. What is the writer's purpose? Why did he write this letter?
- c. Underline the sentences or parts of sentences that show an opinion.
- d. Why do you think the writer included a fact in this paragraph?

2 Do these types of writing use mostly facts, mostly opinions, or an even mixture of both? Write F for fact, O for opinion, or B for both. Explain your choices to a partner.

- a. movie review
- b. advice column
- c. police report of a crime
- d. travel brochure
- e. news report
- f. book report for a college literature class
- g. magazine advertisement
- h. personal e-mail to a friend

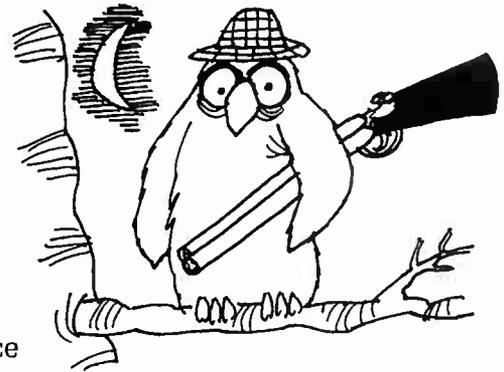

3 Can you think of other types of writing that use opinions? Make a list. Then make a list of types of writing that use facts.

Use opinions:

Use facts:

4 Read these sentences. Write F if the sentence is a fact, and O if the sentence is an opinion.

- a. Airfares have become too expensive.
- b. English is an easier language to learn than Arabic.
- c. Owls are birds that hunt at night.
- d. I was born in New York City.
- e. Exercise is the best way to stay healthy.
- f. Internet use has increased every year since its beginning.
- g. Engineering is the best career choice.
- h. Big cities are dangerous at night.

5 Write three fact sentences and three opinion sentences.

- a.
- b.
- c.
- d.
- e.
- f.

6 Share your sentences with a partner. Decide which of your partner's sentences are fact and which are opinion.

Modal auxiliaries

➤ Using modal auxiliaries

When you speak, you introduce opinions with phrases like I think, In my opinion, and I believe. In general, these introductory phrases are not needed in writing. They can even make you sound less sure of your ideas. Instead, writers use grammatical methods such as modal auxiliary verbs and transition words to express their opinions. Modal auxiliary verbs show the strength of a writer's opinion or argument.

AFFIRMATIVE:

The city	could	add more bike paths.	weakest should		▼ ought to
	has to / must		strongest

NEGATIVE:

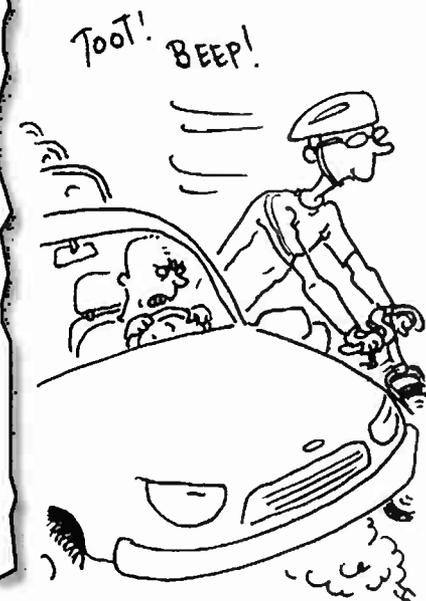

The city	doesn't have to	allow more cars.	weakest shouldn't		▼
	can't / must not		strongest

- 7 Look again at the paragraph in exercise 1 on page 33. Circle the modal auxiliaries. How strong do you think the writer's opinions were? Discuss with a partner.
- 8 Read the paragraph below. Circle the most appropriate modal auxiliary in each sentence.

Dear Editor,

I agree with Bill Adams's opinion in his recent letter saying that people ^a should / don't have to ride their bicycles into town. However, there is one problem with this idea. The roads in town are so narrow and full of cars that you ^b can't / ought to ride safely on them. If people are going to ride bicycles into town, the city ^c could / must make some bike paths for people to use. Maybe the city ^d could / mustn't charge a small additional tax on fuel to pay for the bike paths. Motorists have created the problem, so motorists ^e could / should pay for the solution. The city ^f ought to / doesn't have to support cyclists like Bill Adams by building more bike paths.

Expressing opinions: class survey

9 Read these statements that express opinions. Add three of your own.

Name:
1. Smoking must be banned in all restaurants and bars.	<input type="checkbox"/> agree <input type="checkbox"/> disagree	<input type="checkbox"/> agree <input type="checkbox"/> disagree	<input type="checkbox"/> agree <input type="checkbox"/> disagree
2. University students should not have part-time jobs.	<input type="checkbox"/> agree <input type="checkbox"/> disagree	<input type="checkbox"/> agree <input type="checkbox"/> disagree	<input type="checkbox"/> agree <input type="checkbox"/> disagree
3.	<input type="checkbox"/> agree <input type="checkbox"/> disagree	<input type="checkbox"/> agree <input type="checkbox"/> disagree	<input type="checkbox"/> agree <input type="checkbox"/> disagree
4.	<input type="checkbox"/> agree <input type="checkbox"/> disagree	<input type="checkbox"/> agree <input type="checkbox"/> disagree	<input type="checkbox"/> agree <input type="checkbox"/> disagree
5.	<input type="checkbox"/> agree <input type="checkbox"/> disagree	<input type="checkbox"/> agree <input type="checkbox"/> disagree	<input type="checkbox"/> agree <input type="checkbox"/> disagree

10 Share your statements with three classmates. Say how you feel about your partners' statements by saying, "I agree" or "I disagree," and then adding one sentence. Check (✓) your partners' opinions about your statements.

11 Read the opinion paragraphs in exercise 1 on page 33 and exercise 8 on page 35 again. Then write a paragraph about one of the opinions you expressed in exercise 10 above. Brainstorm ideas, narrow your topic, and then write. Remember to use modal auxiliaries.

Causal adverbs

➤ How to use causal adverbs for expressing opinions

Because, since, and so are causal adverbs. They join two ideas when one idea causes or explains the other. Because and since introduce the cause or reason, and so and therefore introduce the effect or result:

cause / reason

gasoline is becoming scarce and expensive effect / result

we should develop electric cars

For example:

Because gasoline is becoming scarce and expensive, we should develop electric cars.

We should develop electric cars since gasoline is becoming scarce and expensive.

Gasoline is becoming scarce and expensive, so we should develop electric cars.

Therefore is slightly different. It joins the ideas in two sentences:

Gasoline is becoming scarce and expensive. Therefore, we should develop electric cars.

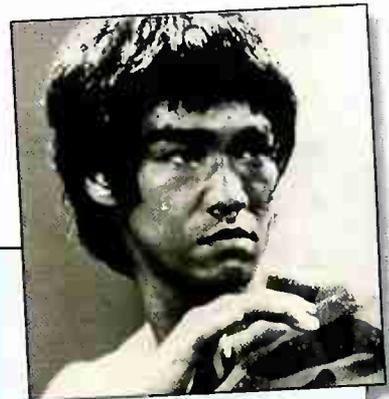

12 In the examples above, underline the causes. Circle the results. Do the causal adverbs come before the cause or before the result? Share your answers with a partner.

➤ Punctuation note

- When because or since begin a sentence, use a comma after the first part of the sentence (the cause).
- When the effect or result comes first, don't use a comma before because and since.
- A result or effect beginning with so is usually the second part of a sentence. Use a comma before so.
- Use Therefore after a period.
- Use a comma after Therefore.

13 Complete this opinion paragraph using because or since, so, or Therefore. Add punctuation where necessary.

Bruce Lee (1940–1973), the greatest action movie star of all time, should be given a lifetime achievement award for his work in the movies. Bruce died tragically in 1973 ^a he wouldn't be able to receive the award himself, but his fans all over the world would love to see him honored. Why was Bruce Lee so great? The fight scenes in his films were amazing ^b Bruce was always in top physical condition. His body was almost perfect. He was also a great actor. ^c he started acting when he was just six years old, he was very comfortable and natural in front of the camera. His face was very expressive ^d he was able to communicate a lot of feeling with a simple look. Bruce always looked good on film ^e he was so charming. Bruce Lee was a talented actor, a brilliant fighter, and an almost perfect example of physical fitness. ^f he should receive an award that recognizes his great contribution to the art of film making.

14 Use the causal adverbs in parentheses to join these ideas. You may change the order of ideas. You may make one sentence or two. Use appropriate punctuation.

a. the city doesn't have enough money / we ought to increase city taxes (so)

b. I'm going to quit my part-time job / I don't have enough time for my homework (because)

.....

c. some plants and trees are dying / this summer has been very dry (since)

.....

d. many students are graduating with nursing degrees / it might be hard for nurses to find jobs in the future (Therefore)

.....

e. my friends all recommend that restaurant / I will try it this weekend (so)

15 Look again at the opinions that were expressed in exercise 9 on page 36. Complete these sentences in your notebook with your own ideas about these opinions. Use appropriate punctuation.

a. Because

b. since

c. so

d. Since

e. because

f. Therefore

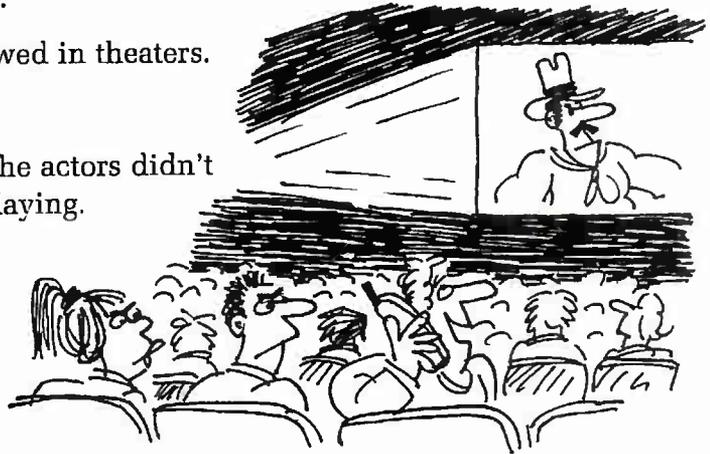

Writing an opinion paragraph

16 Write an opinion paragraph. First, answer this question: What do I want my reader to think or do? Then brainstorm ideas and narrow your topic. Use modal auxiliaries and causal adverbs.

Review

- 17 Put these sentences in order to make a paragraph. Write 1 in front of the first sentence, 2 in front of the second sentence, and so on.
- a. He was receiving a call.
 - b. My friend and I leaned forward, listening carefully to the movie.
 - c. It was very distracting.
 - d. Last night, I went to see a movie with my friend. It was a suspense movie.
 - e. He decided to answer the call.
 - f. We think that people should turn off their cell phones when they watch a movie, or not bring them at all!
 - g. It was very exciting.
 - h. The man next to us had a cell phone.
 - i. Suddenly, we heard a loud sound—a silly musical melody.
 - j. He spoke out loud to his friend.
 - k. Cell phones should not be allowed in theaters.
 - l. My friend and I felt annoyed.
 - m. At the most exciting moment, the actors didn't speak. Only quiet music was playing.

- 18 With a partner, write a paragraph using the sentences in exercise 17 above. Remember to join some of the sentences with causal adverbs and with transitions from the top of page 30. Read your paragraph to another pair. How were your paragraphs the same? How were they different?

6 Comparison / Contrast Paragraphs

In this unit, you will learn about ...

- comparison / contrast paragraphs and reasons for writing them.
- how to organize comparison / contrast paragraphs.
- connecting words used for comparing and contrasting topics.
- how to write about the advantages and disadvantages of a topic.

Paragraphs that compare and contrast

To compare means to discuss how two people, places, or things are similar: Both teachers and students need to spend a lot of time preparing for classes. To contrast means to discuss how two people, places, or things are different: One main advantage of a bicycle over a car is that a bicycle doesn't create any air pollution.

Choosing a topic

- 1 Brainstorm ideas to compare and contrast. Think of people, places, and things. Then compare your lists with a partner.

People: and

Things: and

Comparing and contrasting

2 Read Toko's e-mail message to her friend and answer the questions.

- a. What two things does the second paragraph talk about?
- b. Is the second paragraph mostly comparing or mostly contrasting? How do you know?

Subject: City Collegel

Hi, Kyung Hwal

How are you doing? I hope everything is fine with you. It's almost time to graduate—can you believe it? I was just talking to Anna yesterday and she told me that you are planning to go to City College. That's great! Since I'm planning to go to State University, we'll be living in the same city! Have you decided where you're going to live?

My parents want me to live in a dormitory, but I want to get a campus apartment. I think they are both good places to live, but an apartment would be better. In a dorm, you usually live with at least one other person in a small room. On the other hand, most of the campus apartments are pretty large, but they are for single people like me who want to live alone. Another difference is that in a dorm, you get food cooked by somebody else. In an apartment, of course, you have to cook for yourself! That would be good for me because I like to cook. My parents point out that when you pay the bill for a dorm, it includes food and utilities, but for an apartment, there might be different bills for the telephone, the electricity, and the gas. Plus, you have your own grocery bill when you go to the store. However, when you have your own apartment, you get to choose what you eat and when you eat it. I hope I can convince my parents that an apartment will be better than a dorm.

Talk to you soon!

Love,

Toko

Comparative and contrastive structures

Using comparative structures

These words and phrases are used for writing comparisons:

and The man and the woman are tall.
 both Both of the tables have broken legs.*
 both ... and Both my neighbor and I are selling our cars.*
 also The stores are closing for the holiday. The bank is also closing.

too Kathy is planning to go to the party, and I am, too.
 neither ... nor Neither Joe nor Steve went to the meeting last night.*
 similar to Their new computer is similar to the one my brother bought.
 the same as Is the restaurant where you had dinner the same as the place where I ate last month?

(just) as + adjective + as His coat is just as warm as the more expensive one.

likewise My parents were born in a small village. Likewise, my brothers and I also grew up in a small town.

similarly There are many parks to visit in that city. Similarly, there are several parks in my hometown, too.

3 Complete these sentences with phrases from above.

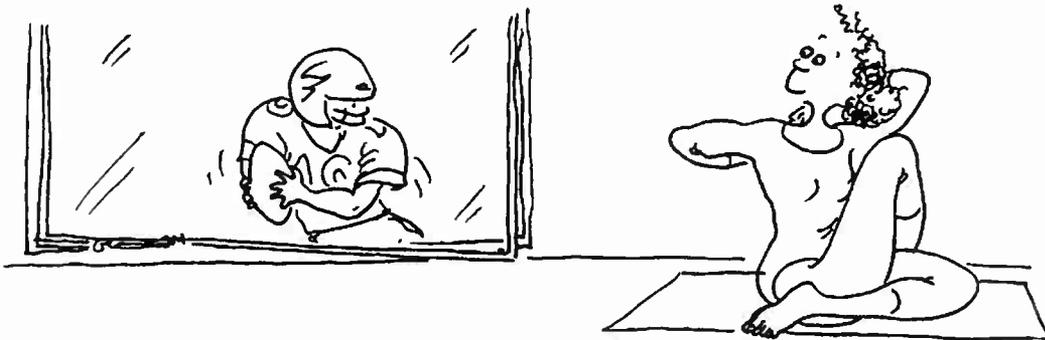

- a. The architecture of some modern government buildings is the type of construction used hundreds of years ago.
- b. In recent years, new technology such as cellular telephones has made life more convenient., the Internet has made a wide variety of information available to everyone.
- c. the rivers the lakes are clear and beautiful.
- d. The capital city is just modern the cities in many other countries.

➤ Using contrastive structures

These words and phrases are used for writing contrasts:

more / less + adjective / adverb + than	Eating out is usually more expensive than cooking at home.
adjective + er + than	My bedroom is bigger than my sister's room.
but, while, though	I enjoy eating fruit for dessert, but / while / though my friend likes chocolate.
not the same as	This book isn't the same as the one you bought. not as ... as	Some people feel that doing exercise isn't as fun as watching TV. different from	That style of shirt is different from the styles most people wear. in contrast	The lakes we swam in were very clean and beautiful. In contrast, the lakes in my country are polluted. however	The new store sells its clothing at low prices. However, other stores have better quality clothing. on the other hand	My boyfriend likes to play sports. On the other hand, I prefer to do yoga.

4 Complete these sentences with phrases from above.

- Some tourists enjoy taking part in a tour group, many other tourists prefer traveling on their own.
- The two books are very each other.
- The cost of studying in a college or university in the United States is very high., in many other countries, the cost is much lower.
- Changes in technology are occurring quickly in the past.

Similarities and differences

- 5 Write eight sentences about these two cars. Write about four similarities and four differences.

Comparison / contrast organization

- Two methods for organizing a comparison / contrast paragraph

Method 1: Block organization

First, write about supporting points for the first topic. Then compare or contrast those same points to the second topic. This type of organization could be outlined like this:

Topic sentence comparing / contrasting two topics (A & B)

Points of comparison / contrast about Topic A

Points of comparison / contrast about Topic B

Concluding sentence

Reading a story in a book is often very different from seeing it as a movie. When you read a story, you need to use your imagination. A book usually gives a lot of description about the people, places, and things in the story, so you can create pictures in your mind. In addition, the conversations between people are always written with details that describe how the people look or feel while they are talking. When you read, you use a lot of imagination to help "see" the characters in the story. However, when you see a movie, it is a different experience. When you watch a movie, you don't need to use your imagination. The pictures on the screen give all the details about the people, places, and things in the story. The conversations are spoken out loud, so you just listen and watch. The feelings of the people come through their faces, body movements, and voices. Although a book and a movie might tell the same story, reading a book and watching a movie are very different experiences.

Method 2: Point-by-point organization

Compare or contrast one point about the two topics, then a second point, then a third point, and so on. This type of organization could be outlined like this:

Topic sentence comparing or contrasting two topics (A & B)

First point of comparison / contrast (A1, B1)

Second point of comparison / contrast (A2, B2)

Third point of comparison / contrast (A3, B3)

Fourth point of comparison / contrast (A4, B4)

Fifth point of comparison / contrast (A5, B5)

Concluding sentence

Marilyn Monroe and Princess Diana lived at different times in different countries, but their lives had some surprising similarities. First of all, both women had a difficult childhood. Monroe spent many years without parents in an orphanage, and Diana's mother left the family when she was only six. Later in their lives, both women married famous men. Princess Diana married Prince Charles, and Marilyn Monroe married a famous baseball player and later a famous writer. They also had difficult marriages and eventually separated from their husbands. Another similarity between Marilyn Monroe and Princess Diana was that they were both very popular. Diana was called "The people's princess" because she was so friendly. Although Monroe was famously sexy, she was well-liked because she seemed very innocent. However, although they both seemed to have very happy lives, both women actually had emotional problems and often felt sad and depressed. Monroe went through serious depression and had to go to a hospital for treatment. Likewise, Diana suffered from an eating problem and was depressed during parts of her marriage. A last similarity between Marilyn Monroe and Princess Diana was their deaths at an early age. In fact, they were both thirty-six years old when they died, Monroe in 1962 and Diana in 1997. Maybe their similar life circumstances and lifestyles explain why Princess Diana and Marilyn Monroe also had similar personalities.

6 Read the two paragraphs above then answer the questions.

- Which paragraph mostly compares and which mostly contrasts?
- Finish filling in the outlines on page 46 for each paragraph.

Block organization: Paragraph 1

9 Write a comparison or contrast paragraph. Use either point-by-point organization or block organization.

Advantages and disadvantages

☞ Writing about advantages and disadvantages

Another way to compare or contrast is to talk about advantages (positive points) or disadvantages (negative points) of a topic. If you are writing about one topic, it is usually best to discuss advantages and disadvantages in two separate paragraphs. If you are comparing or contrasting two topics, you could organize the paragraph in either point-by-point or block style.

10 Read this paragraph from a school newspaper. List the supporting points. Does the paragraph discuss advantages or disadvantages?

Studying abroad and studying in your own country both have definite benefits for a student. Living in another country can be an exciting experience because everything seems new and different. The challenge of living in a new environment can give you courage and self-confidence, too. If you want to learn another language, living abroad is a great way to do that because you can read magazines or newspapers, watch television programs, or make friends with people who are native speakers. Another good reason to live abroad is to learn more about another culture. On the other hand, there are also advantages to staying in your own country to study. It is cheaper than living abroad, so you can save more money. Also, in your home country, everything is familiar. You don't need to worry about taking classes in a foreign language, and you can understand the culture and the expectations of teachers. Finally, if you stay in your own country, you can be close to your family and friends. So, if you are thinking about where to study, consider all of these benefits and make a decision that is right for you.

11 Write one or two paragraphs comparing or contrasting topics of your choice or one of these.

- action movies / romantic movies
- the advantages and disadvantages of living abroad
- living in a small town / living in a big city
- playing sports / watching sports on TV
- the advantages and disadvantages of having a job while in college

Studying English

- a. takes a lot of time
- b. classes are fun
- c. grammar is difficult
- d. useful for talking to people from other countries
- e. good for using the Internet
- f. lots of vocabulary to learn
- g. too many tests to take
- h. helps to understand English-language movies
- i. my friends like English
- j. pronunciation is difficult

- 14 Now, in pairs, one person should write a paragraph about the advantages and the other person should write about the disadvantages of studying English. Add one new idea of your own to your paragraph.

- 15 Share your paragraphs with another pair of students.

7 Problem / Solution Paragraphs

In this unit, you will ...

- write about problems and solutions.
- use real conditionals.
- write a two-paragraph paper with linking phrases.

➤ Problems and solutions

Problem / solution writing first explains a problem and then proposes one or more solutions to that problem. Often this type of writing requires more than one paragraph. In this unit, you will write a two-paragraph discussion of a problem and solution.

Problems and solutions

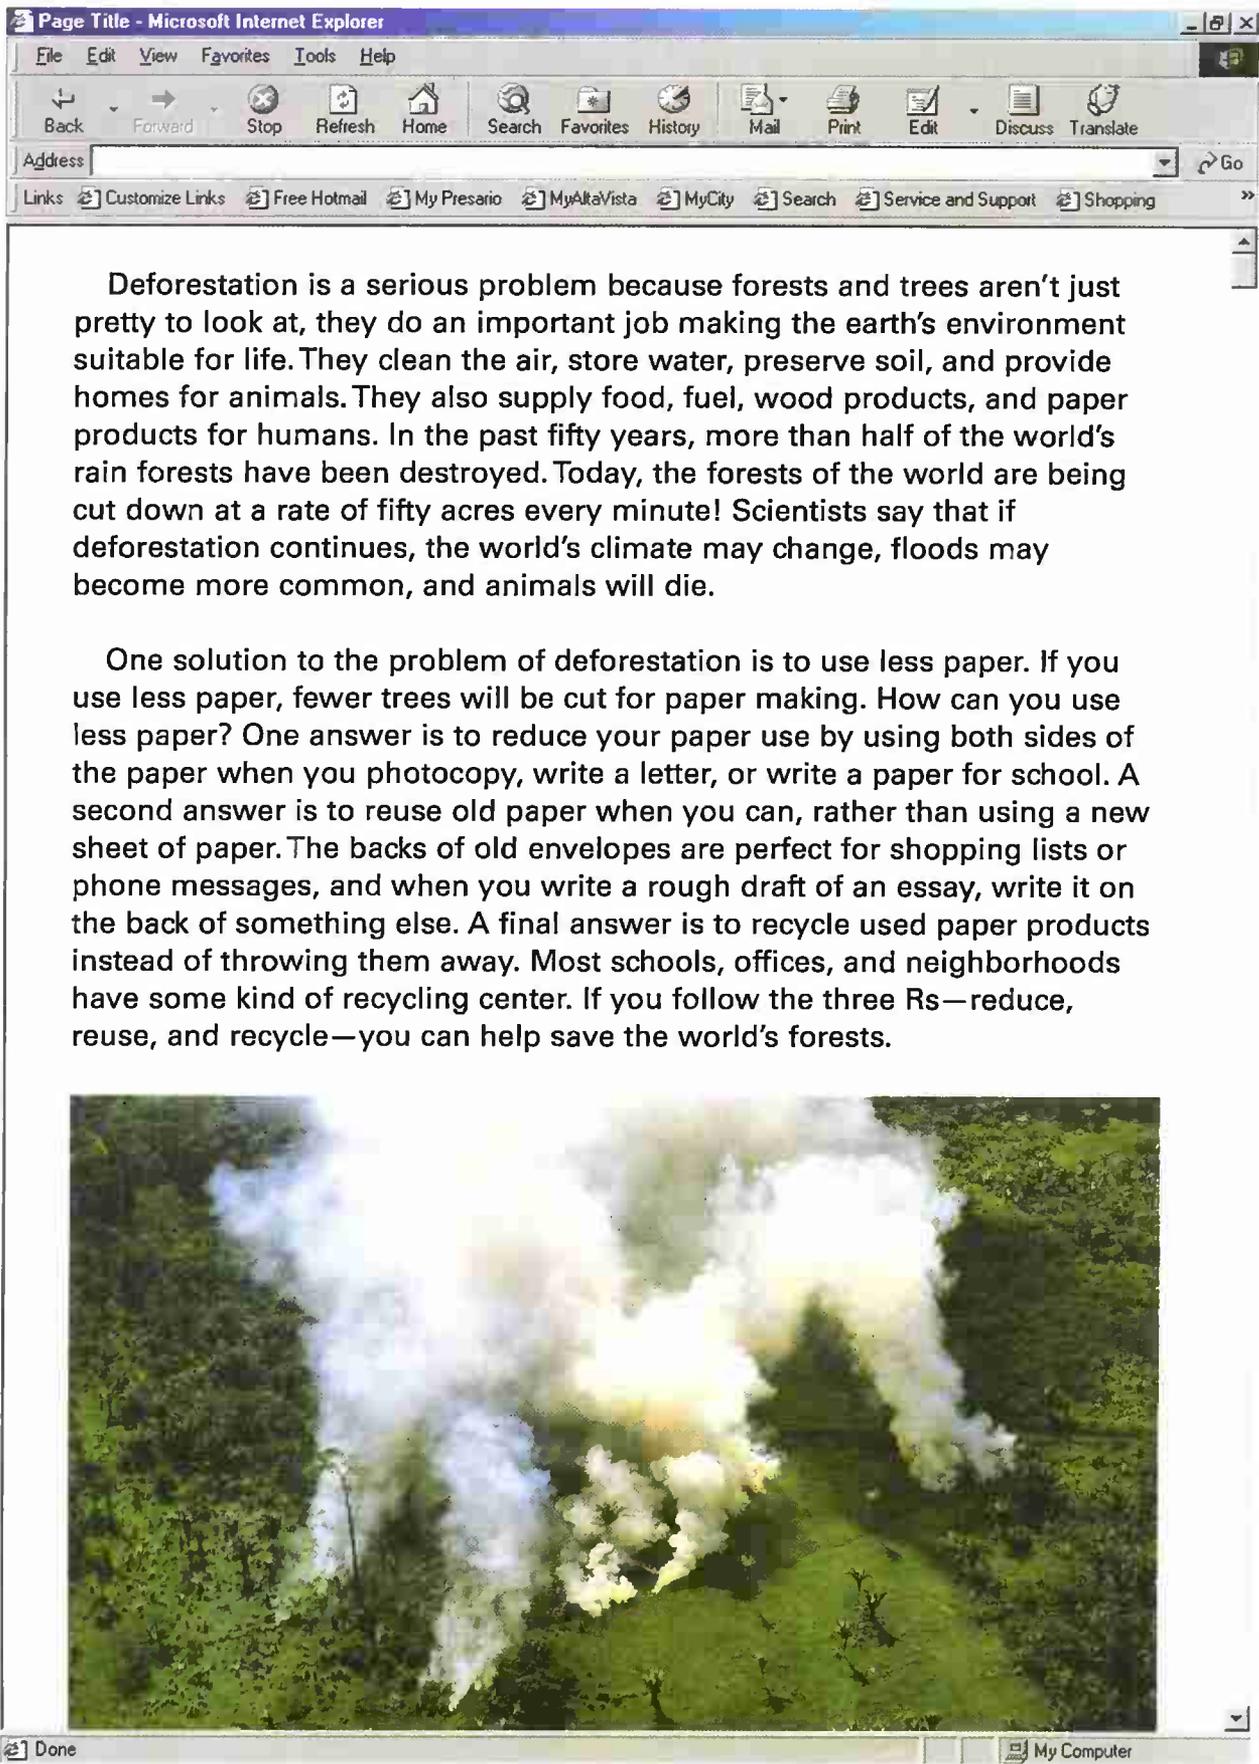

- 1 Read the article from a website on page 51. What is the main idea of the first paragraph? What is the topic sentence?
- 2 Answer these questions.
 - a. How is the first paragraph developed? What are the supporting ideas?
 - b. What do the supporting ideas show?
 - c. What is the main idea of the second paragraph? What is the topic sentence?
 - d. What solution does the writer offer? What details support or explain the solution?
 - e. Is there a concluding sentence in the first paragraph? In the second paragraph?

Writing about problems

➤ How to write a problem paragraph

A problem paragraph describes and discusses a problem issue. The topic sentence names the issue you will discuss. The supporting sentences show why this issue is a problem.

- 3 Work with a partner or small group. Discuss why these issues are problems. Then add two more issues and discuss them.
 - a. air pollution
 - b. traffic
 - c. overcrowded classrooms
 - d.
 - e.

Deforestation is a serious problem because forests and trees aren't just pretty to look at, they do an important job making the earth's environment suitable for life. They clean the air, store water, preserve soil, and provide homes for animals. They also supply food, fuel, wood products, and paper products for humans. In the past fifty years, more than half of the world's rain forests have been destroyed. Today, the forests of the world are being cut down at a rate of fifty acres every minute! Scientists say that if deforestation continues, the world's climate may change, floods may become more common, and animals will die.

One solution to the problem of deforestation is to use less paper. If you use less paper, fewer trees will be cut for paper making. How can you use less paper? One answer is to reduce your paper use by using both sides of the paper when you photocopy, write a letter, or write a paper for school. A second answer is to reuse old paper when you can, rather than using a new sheet of paper. The backs of old envelopes are perfect for shopping lists or phone messages, and when you write a rough draft of an essay, write it on the back of something else. A final answer is to recycle used paper products instead of throwing them away. Most schools, offices, and neighborhoods have some kind of recycling center. If you follow the three Rs—reduce, reuse, and recycle—you can help save the world's forests.

Using conditional structures

The real (or first) conditional is a useful way to talk about both problems and solutions:

Fish will get sick if factories dump their waste into streams.

modal + main verb present
(will, can, could, should, etc.)

If you eat fish from polluted waters, you could get sick too.

present modal + main verb
(will, can, could, should, etc.)

Punctuation note: No comma is needed when the if-clause comes second:

People can become sick if they eat the sick fish.

The event in the if-clause is possible, or is likely to happen. The event in the result clause would logically follow. There are other types of conditional sentences, but real conditionals are the most common in writing about problems and solutions.

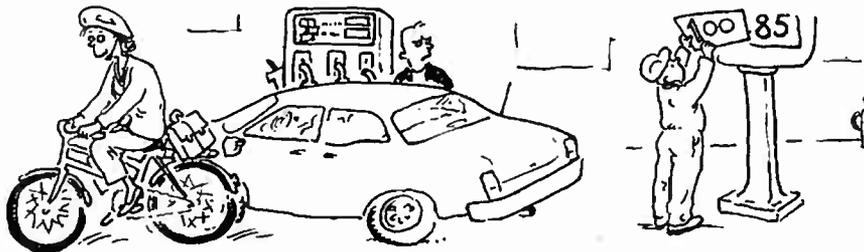

4 Read the paragraphs on page 51 again. Underline the conditional sentences.

5 Complete these sentences by circling the correct form of the verb.

- a. If you use / don't use a map when you drive, you get / could get lost.
- b. Students do / will do poorly on their exams if they don't get / won't get enough sleep.
- c. If you want / could want to lose weight, exercise / don't exercise three times a week and eat / don't eat junk food.
- d. If you fly / could fly there, it will be / can faster than taking the train.
- e. Many arguments are / can be avoided if you think / will think before you speak.
- f. I will go / won't go to that movie if I find / will find someone to go with me.

6 Complete these sentences with your own ideas. Then compare with a partner.

- a. If it rains this weekend,
- b. If the library isn't open tomorrow,
- c. If gas prices increase even more,

- d. , I will call you tonight.
- e. , you can make a lot of money.
- f. , I won't take a vacation.

- 7 For each topic in exercise 3 on page 50, write one or two conditional sentences that explain the problem. Compare your sentences with a partner. Did you have similar or different ideas?
- 8 Choose one topic from exercise 3 on page 50. Brainstorm more ideas if necessary, then write a paragraph about it. Use conditional sentences.

Linking problems with solutions

➤ How to link a solution paragraph to a problem paragraph

The first paragraph—the problem paragraph—explains the problem. The topic sentence of the second paragraph—the solution paragraph—introduces your solution or solutions. The supporting sentences show how your solution(s) will solve the problem. Use these phrases:

- | | |
|---|---|
| In order to solve these problems, ... | In order to overcome these problems, ... |
| To meet this need, ... | One solution is ... |
| One answer is ... | One thing we can do is ... |
| A second / third / final answer is ... | |

- 9 Read the solution paragraph on page 51 again. Circle the linking phrases.
- 10 Work with a group. For each of these topic sentences, brainstorm solutions. Introduce each solution with one of the phrases above. Then think of one more problem together, and give it to another group to discuss.
 - a. We must reduce exam stress for high school students.
 - b. Teenagers spend so much time using their cell phones that they are no longer skilled at face-to-face interaction.

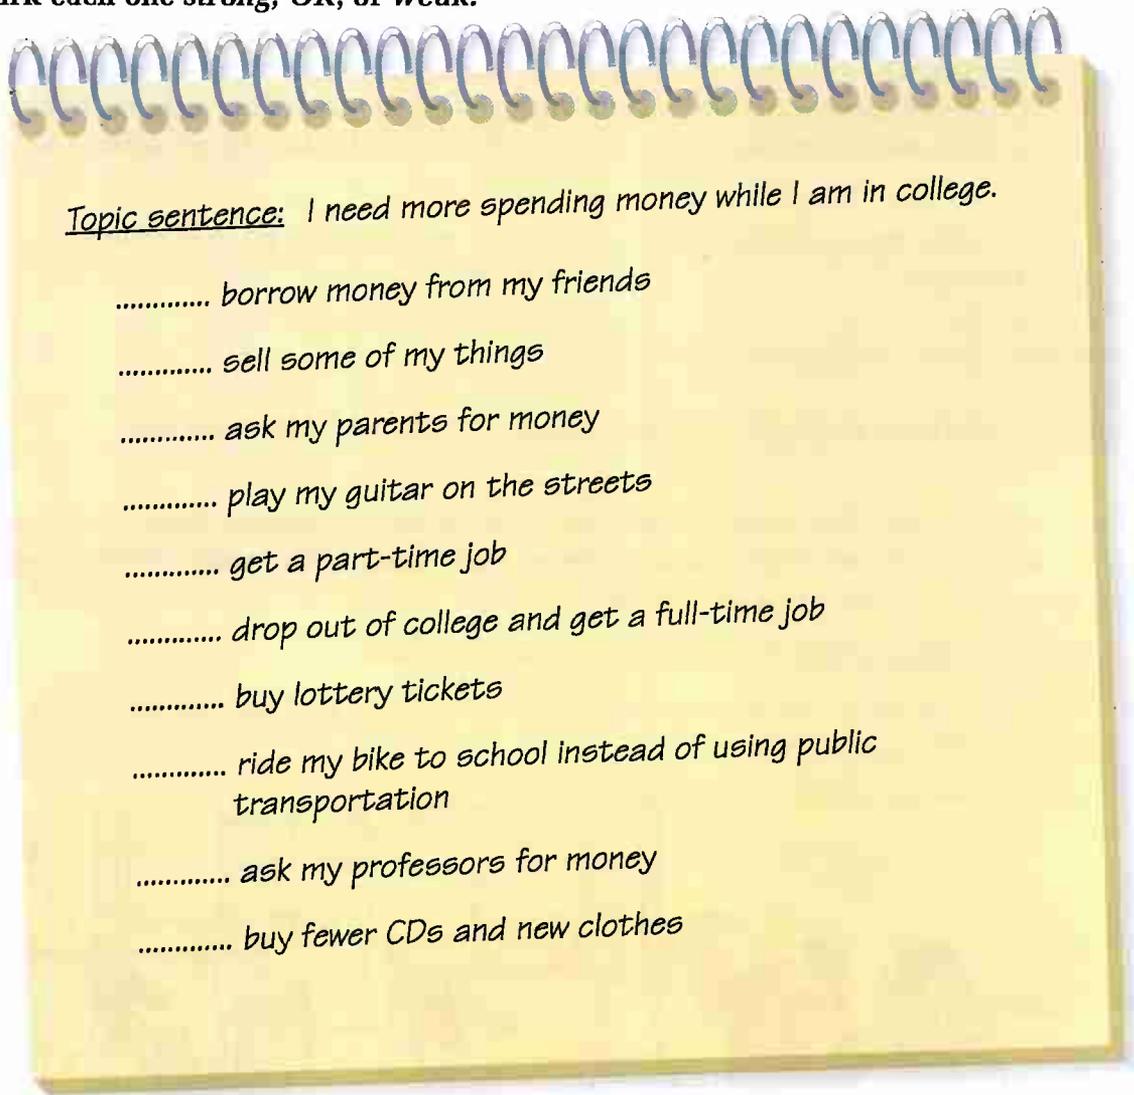

- c. In the next five to ten years, experts predict that there won't be enough doctors and nurses to meet hospitals' needs.
- d. We have to find ways to protect young children from violence on television.
- e.

Writing solutions

○ Finding the best solution

After you have brainstormed solutions to your problem, you need to select the best one or ones to write about in your solution paragraph. A strong solution clearly and reasonably solves the problem. A weak solution doesn't really solve the problem or is not practical or not logical.

- 11 With a partner, talk about the solutions that this student brainstormed for her topic. Mark each one strong, OK, or weak.

- 12 Use at least three solutions from the list in exercise 11 above to write a solution paragraph. Use linking phrases and conditional sentences to explain how the solutions will solve the problem. Share your paragraph with your partner.
- 13 For the problem paragraph you wrote in exercise 8 on page 53, brainstorm solutions. Edit your brainstorming, then write a solution paragraph. Use linking phrases and conditional sentences.

Review

- 14 Look at this list of ideas that a student brainstormed about his topic. Work with a partner to divide the ideas into problems and solutions. Try to add one more problem and solution to the list.

- a.
- b.
- c.
- d.
- e.

solutions

- f.
- g.
- h.
- i.
- j.

- 15 Work alone. Use the ideas above to write a problem paragraph and a solution paragraph. Remember to write a topic sentence for each paragraph, and a concluding sentence for the solution paragraph. Use conditional sentences and linking phrases where you can. Then compare your paragraphs with your partner. What parts were similar? What parts were different?

8 The Structure of an Essay

In this unit, you will learn ...

- the definition of an essay.
- how to format an essay.
- how to write a thesis statement.

➤ What is an essay?

An essay is a group of paragraphs written about a single topic and a central main idea. It must have at least three paragraphs, but a five-paragraph essay is a common assignment for academic writing.

The structure of an essay

➤ The three main parts of an essay

The introduction

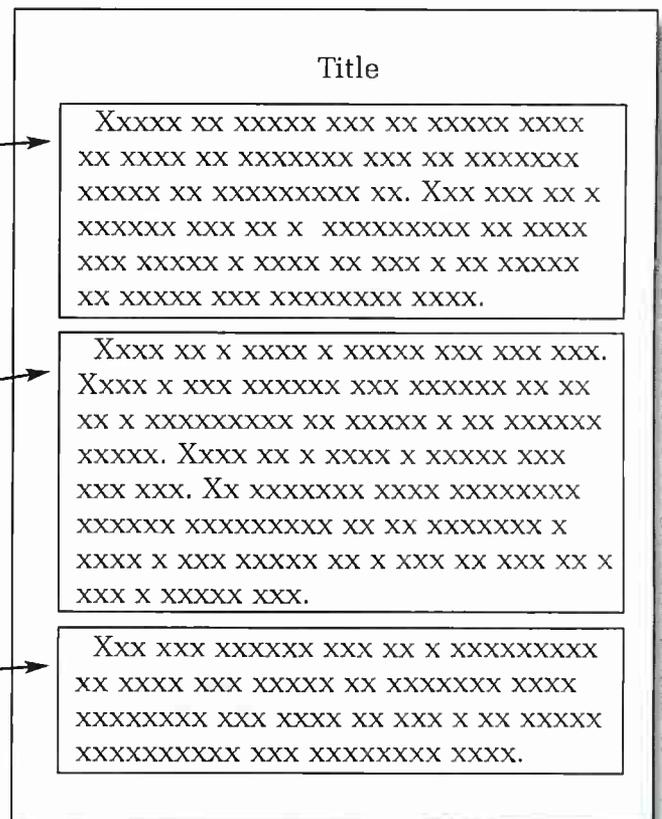

This is the first paragraph of an essay. It explains the topic with general ideas. It also has a thesis statement. This is a sentence that gives the main idea. It usually comes at or near the end of the paragraph.

The body

These are the paragraphs that explain and support the thesis statement and come between the introduction and the conclusion. There must be one or more body paragraphs in an essay.

The conclusion

This is the last paragraph of an essay. It summarizes or restates the thesis and the supporting ideas of the essay.

➤ How to format an essay

1. Use double spacing (leave a blank line between each line of writing).
2. Leave 2.5 centimeters (1 inch) of space on the sides, and the top and bottom of the page. This space is called the margin.
3. If you type your essay, start the first line of each paragraph with five spaces (one tab). This is called indenting. If you write by hand, indent about 2 centimeters ($\frac{3}{4}$ inch).
4. Put the title of your essay at the top of the first page in the center.

I Label the three parts of this essay: introduction, body paragraphs, and conclusion.

Changing English: the African American Influence

If you ask average Americans where their language comes from, they will probably say "England." However, English vocabulary has also been influenced by other countries and groups of people. Some words are borrowed from other languages, such as typhoon, which originally came from the Chinese word, "tai-fung," meaning "big wind." Skunk, the name of a small, smelly, black-and-white animal, came to English from a Native American language. African Americans, too, have both contributed new words to English and changed the meanings of some existing words.

African Americans, many of whose ancestors were brought to the States as slaves hundreds of years ago, have introduced a number of words to English from languages that they spoke in their native countries. The common English word OK is used around the world today, but it was not always part of English vocabulary. One theory is that slaves in America used a phrase in their own language that sounded like OK to mean "all right." Americans heard the phrase and started using it. Today, almost everyone in the world uses OK to mean "all right." Another good example of a "new" word is the word jazz. African American musicians living in the United States began playing jazz music in the city of New Orleans, and they used the word jass or jazz to describe the music and certain kinds of dancing. No one is sure where the word originally came from, but as jazz music became more and more popular, the word jazz became a common English word.

The meanings of words sometimes change over time. The word cool is a good example. Cool has been used in English for a long time to describe a temperature that is "not warm but not too cold" or to describe a person who is "calm or unemotional." However, an additional meaning was given to the word cool in the past 100 years. Just like the word jazz, African American musicians used the word cool to describe the music they were playing. For them, cool meant "good." As jazz music and other forms of music played by African American musicians became popular, more and more people started to use the word cool in conversation. Today, it is still a commonly used word, especially by younger people, to mean "good" or "great." A word with the opposite meaning of cool is square. Square is, of course, a shape, but it also is used to describe a person who is not cool. This may be because a person who is too old-fashioned and not flexible is like a shape with four straight sides and four corners.

English owes some of its interesting and colorful vocabulary to African Americans. Existing ethnic groups in the United States as well as new immigrants will surely continue to bring new words to English and give fresh meanings to existing words. Who knows what the "cool" words of tomorrow will be?

Thesis statements

1 What is a thesis statement?

The thesis statement is the sentence that tells the main idea of the whole essay. It can be compared to a topic sentence, which gives the main idea of a paragraph. It usually comes at or near the end of the introductory paragraph.

2 Look at the essay in exercise 1 on page 57 again. Underline the thesis statement.

3 In these introductory paragraphs, underline the thesis statement. Then circle the topic and draw another line under the main idea in each thesis statement. Share your answers with a partner.

Before I traveled to the U.S. last year, I thought that American food was just hamburgers and French fries, hot dogs, steaks, pizza, apple pie, and cola. These foods are popular in the States, but during my travels, I discovered that there is so much more to eating in America. People from every country in the world have made their home in the U.S.A., and they have brought with them their native foods. Even in small towns, you can find restaurants serving the foods of China and Mexico, Italy and Vietnam. The United States can be divided into six general regions that have their own characteristic foods influenced by the cultures of the people who live there.

Everybody knows the koala, that cute Australian animal that resembles a teddy bear. Although koalas look like toys, they are actually strong climbers and spend their days in the treetops. Mother koalas carry their babies around from tree to tree in a pouch, or pocket, on their stomach. Although there were millions of koalas in Australia in the past, they are now a protected species of animal. As a result of human population growth, deforestation, and hunting, the number of koalas has declined.

c.

Taoism is an ancient philosophy from Asia that places great importance on the natural world. Taoists believe that spirit can be found in every person or thing, living or non-living. For the Taoist, even a mountain or a stone contains spirit. Lao Tsu, a Taoist writer and philosopher, said "People follow earth. Earth follows heaven. Heaven follows the Tao. The Tao follows what is natural." For thousands of years in China and other Asian countries, gardens have been an important way to create a place where people can feel the spirit of the natural world. Creating a Taoist garden is an art. No two Taoist gardens are exactly alike, but all Taoist gardens include four essential elements: water, mountains, buildings, and bridges.

➤ Writing a strong thesis statement

- A thesis statement gives the author's opinion or states an important idea about the topic. It should give an idea that can be discussed and explained with supporting ideas:

The qualifications for entering a university in my country are unreasonable.

When studying a second language, there are several ways to improve your use of the language.

These are strong thesis statements. They can be discussed or explained.

- A thesis statement should not be a sentence that only gives a fact about the topic:
In the Northern Hemisphere, the summer months are warmer than the winter months.
This is not a strong thesis statement. It cannot be discussed or argued about.

- A thesis statement should not state two sides of an argument equally:

There are advantages and disadvantages to using nuclear power.

This could be a topic sentence, but it is not a thesis statement. It gives two sides of an argument without giving a clear opinion of support or disagreement. It could be revised like this:

Although there are some advantages, using nuclear power has many disadvantages and should not be a part of our country's energy plan.

This is a strong thesis statement. It clearly gives the writer's opinion about nuclear power.

4 Read these thesis statements below. Write ✓ (strong thesis statement), F (fact only—a weak thesis statement), or N (no clear opinion—a weak thesis statement).

- The top government official in my country is the prime minister.
- Some people prefer digital cameras, while others like traditional cameras.
- India became an independent country in 1947.
- To be a successful student, good study habits are more important than intelligence.
- There are several advantages of owning a car, but there are also many disadvantages.
- Half of the families in my country own a house.
- Using public transportation would be one of the best ways to solve the traffic and pollution problems in cities around the world.
- While traveling, staying in a hotel offers more comfort, but sleeping in a tent is less expensive.
- Classical music concerts are very popular in my country.
- In order to create a successful advertisement, it is necessary to consider three issues: who should be targeted, where the ad should be placed, and what type of ad should be made.

Writing thesis statements

➤ How to connect the thesis statement and the essay

The body paragraphs of an essay should always explain the thesis statement. In addition, each body paragraph should discuss one part of the thesis. Look at the following thesis statement. The topics to be discussed are underlined:

To create a successful advertisement, it is necessary for advertisers to answer three questions: What are we selling?, Who are we selling it to?, and How can we make people want to buy it?

Possible topic sentences for each body paragraph:

1. The first step in creating a successful advertisement is to completely understand the product that is being sold and how it can be used.
2. A second important part of creating an advertisement is deciding who is expected to buy the product.
3. Finally, a way must be found to create an ad that will make people want to buy the product.

5 Look at the introductory paragraphs in exercise 3 on page 58. What should the body paragraphs discuss for each thesis statement? Write your ideas and then compare your answers with a partner.

How to develop a thesis statement

One way to develop a thesis statement for an essay is to write opinions you have about the topic. Begin, I think that ... and complete the sentence with your opinion. Then remove I think that ... and the remaining words make a possible thesis statement.

Topic: diet / food

~~I think that~~ a vegetarian diet is one of the best ways to live a healthy life.

~~I think that~~ governments should restrict the use of chemicals in agriculture and food production.

After you have written several opinion statements, choose the one that would make the best thesis. Remember to decide if the sentence gives a clear opinion, states a fact, or presents two sides without a clear argument.

6 For each of these topics, write two or three opinions you have, starting with I think that.

a. exercise

.....

b. university study

.....

c. the Internet

.....

d. music

.....
.....
.....

- 7 Now cross out the I think that in the statements you wrote in exercise 6 on page 61. Choose the best thesis statement for each topic. Share these with a partner. Decide which ones are good thesis statements.
- 8 Choose one of your thesis statements from exercise 7 above. Circle the topics that must be explained in the essay. Write a topic sentence for each of the circled ideas.

Review

- 9 Complete the crossword.

The topic sentence gives the ¹. m__ idea of a ². p__. Likewise, the thesis statement gives the main ³. i__ of an ⁴. e__.

The ⁵. s__ sentences of a paragraph explain the topic sentence, just as the ⁶. b__ paragraphs of an essay explain the thesis statement.

The last sentence of a paragraph is called the ⁷. c__ sentence, and the last paragraph of an essay is called the ⁸. c__.

9 Outlining an Essay

In this unit, you will learn ...

- the purpose of an outline.
- how to write an outline.

➤ What is an outline?

An outline is a list of the information you will put in your essay. You can see an example of an outline on page 65.

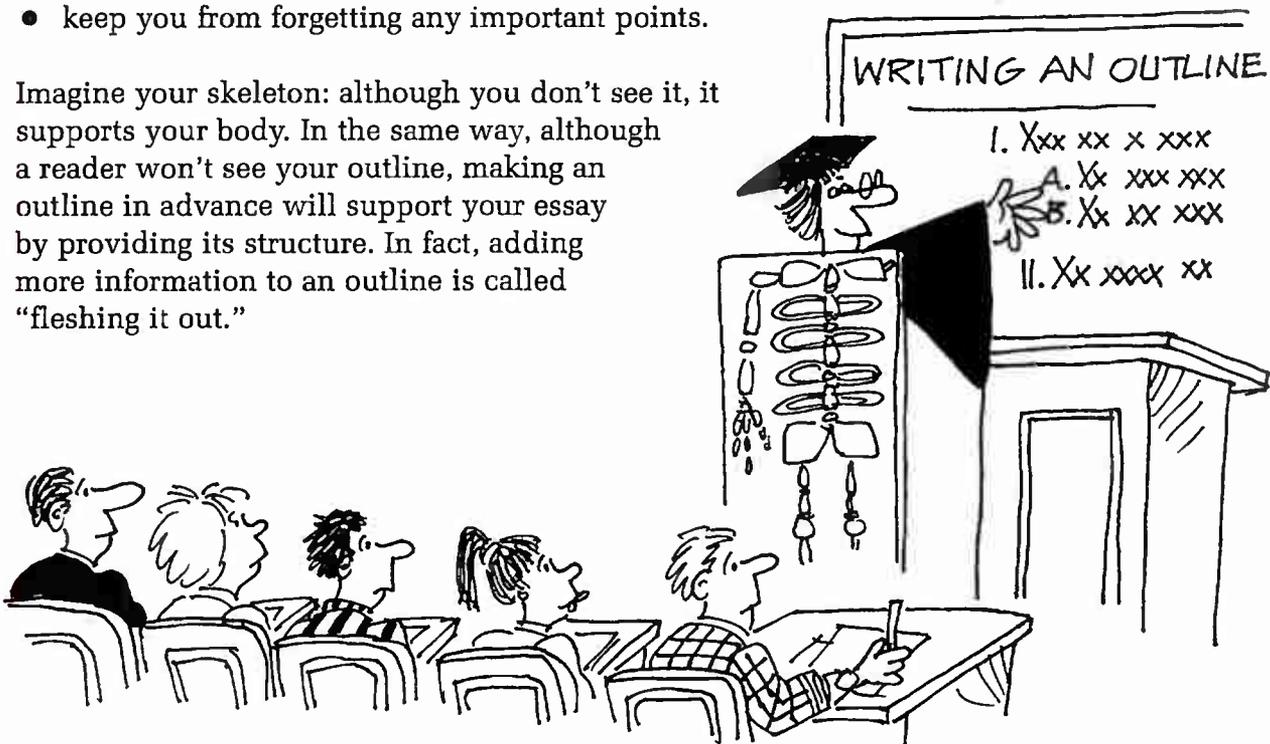

An outline ...

- begins with the essay's thesis statement.
- shows the organization of the essay.
- tells what ideas you will discuss and shows which ideas will come first, second, and so on.
- ends with the essay's conclusion.

Writing an outline before you write an essay will ...

- show you what to write before you actually begin writing.
- help make your essay well organized and clearly focused.
- keep you from forgetting any important points.

Imagine your skeleton: although you don't see it, it supports your body. In the same way, although a reader won't see your outline, making an outline in advance will support your essay by providing its structure. In fact, adding more information to an outline is called "fleshing it out."

Looking at an outline

- I Read the outline on page 65. Answer the questions.
- What will be the thesis statement of the essay?
 - How many body paragraphs will the essay have?
 - How many supporting points will the third paragraph have? What will they be?
 - How many details will the fourth paragraph have? What will they be?

Writing an outline

➤ How to write an outline

Before writing an outline, you must go through the usual process of gathering ideas, editing them, and deciding on a topic for your writing. Writing an outline can be a very useful way of organizing your ideas and seeing how they will work together.

To show how the ideas work together, number them. To avoid confusion, use several different types of numbers and letters to show the organization of the ideas. Use roman numerals (I, II, III, IV, V, VI, etc.) for your essay's main ideas: your introduction and thesis statement, your body paragraphs, and your conclusion. Write all of these first, before going into more detail anywhere.

- I. Introduction
- II. First main idea
- III. Second main idea
- IV. Third main idea
- V. Conclusion

Next, fill in more information for your body paragraphs by using capital roman letters (A, B, C, etc.). Use one letter for each supporting idea in your body paragraph. Complete this information for each body paragraph before going into more detail.

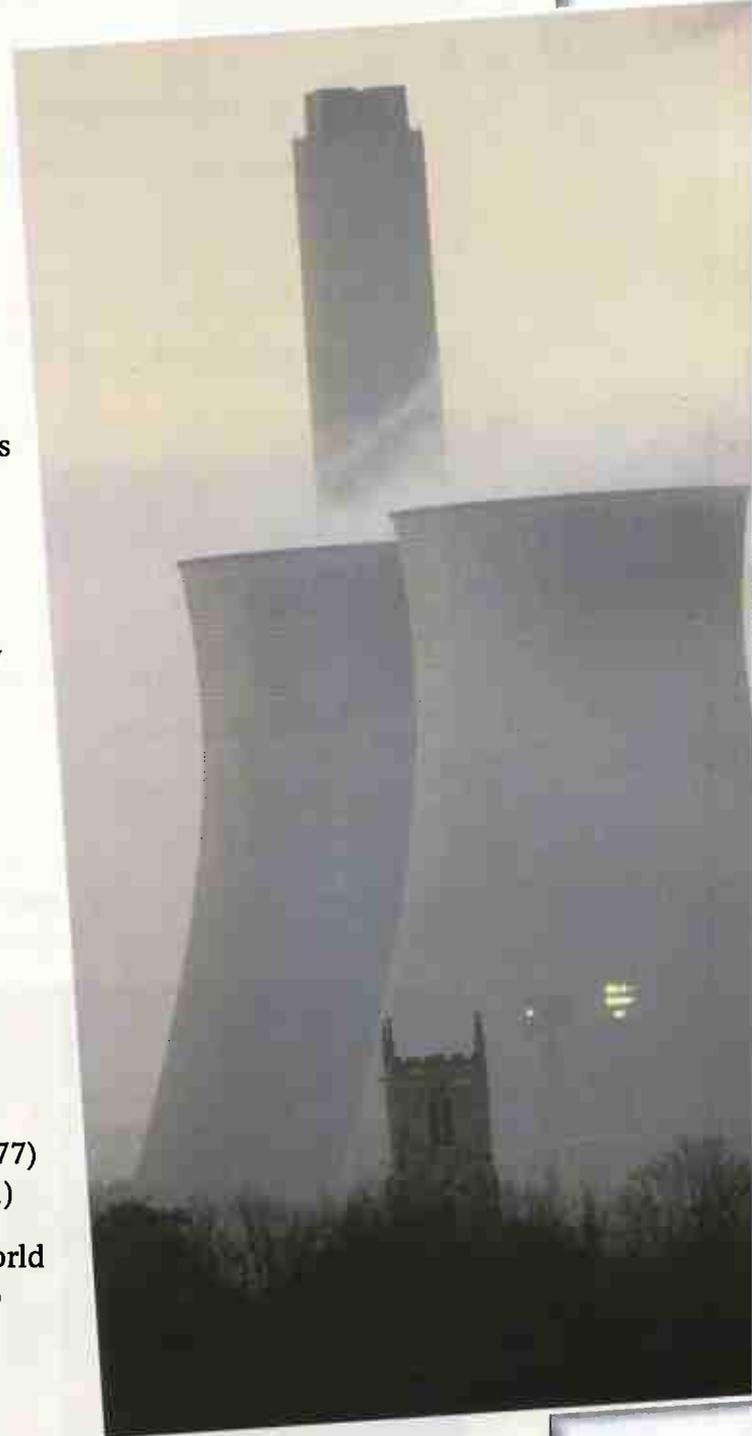

- I. Introduction
- II. First main idea
 - A. First supporting point
 - B. Second supporting point
 - ... and so on.

Finally, use Arabic numerals (1, 2, 3, etc.) to give details for your supporting points. Not every supporting point will have details, and some points will have several. It is not important to have the same number of details for every supporting point.

- I. Introduction
- II. First main idea
 - A. First supporting point
 1. First detail
 2. Second detail
 - B. Second supporting point
 1. First detail
 2. Second detail
 - ... and so on.

Don't Support Nuclear Energy!

- I. Nuclear power is not a good energy source for the world.
- II. Very expensive
 - A. Nuclear fuel is expensive
 - B. Nuclear power plants are expensive to build and operate
 1. Cost of construction
 2. Cost of training workers
 3. Cost of safety features
- III. Nuclear materials are not safe
 - A. Nuclear fuels are dangerous
 1. Mining fuels produces radioactive gas
 2. Working with radioactive fuels can harm workers
 - B. Nuclear waste products are dangerous
 1. Very radioactive
 2. Difficult to dispose of or store safely
- IV. There is a great possibility of accidents
 - A. Nuclear power plants can fail
 1. Three Mile Island, U.S.A. (1979)
 2. Tarapur, India (1992)
 3. Darlington, Canada (1992)
 - B. Workers can make mistakes
 1. Chernobyl, U.S.S.R. (1986)
 2. Kola, Russia (1991)
 3. Tokaimura, Japan (1999)
 - C. Natural disasters can occur
 1. Earthquake: Kozloduy, Bulgaria (1977)
 2. Tornado: Moruroa, the Pacific (1981)
- V. Because of the cost and the danger, the world should develop different types of energy to replace nuclear power.

- 2 Fill in this outline for the essay in Unit 8, exercise 1 on page 57. Then compare with a partner.

The Changing Vocabulary of English

- I. Thesis statement:
- II. Words introduced by
- A.
1. From an African language
 2. Now used all over the world to mean
- B. Jazz
1. Came from
 2. Exact origin unknown
- III.
- A. Cool
1.
 2. New meanings
- B.
1. "Original" meaning
 2.
- IV.: Existing ethnic groups in the United States as well as new immigrants will surely continue to bring new words to English and give fresh meanings to existing words.

3 Label each statement T for thesis statement, M for main idea, S for supporting point, or C for conclusion.

Evaluating an outline

☞ The outline checklist

Before you start writing your essay, check your outline for organization, support, and topic development. If possible, have a friend or your instructor check your outline too.

Organization

- paragraphs in the right order
- supporting points and details in the right order

Support

- each main idea related to the thesis statement
- each supporting point related to the paragraph's main idea

In 1848, gold was discovered in California. People from all over the world rushed to California to look for gold—they wanted to become rich. This was called “the gold rush.”

The Effects of the California Gold Rush on the City of San Francisco

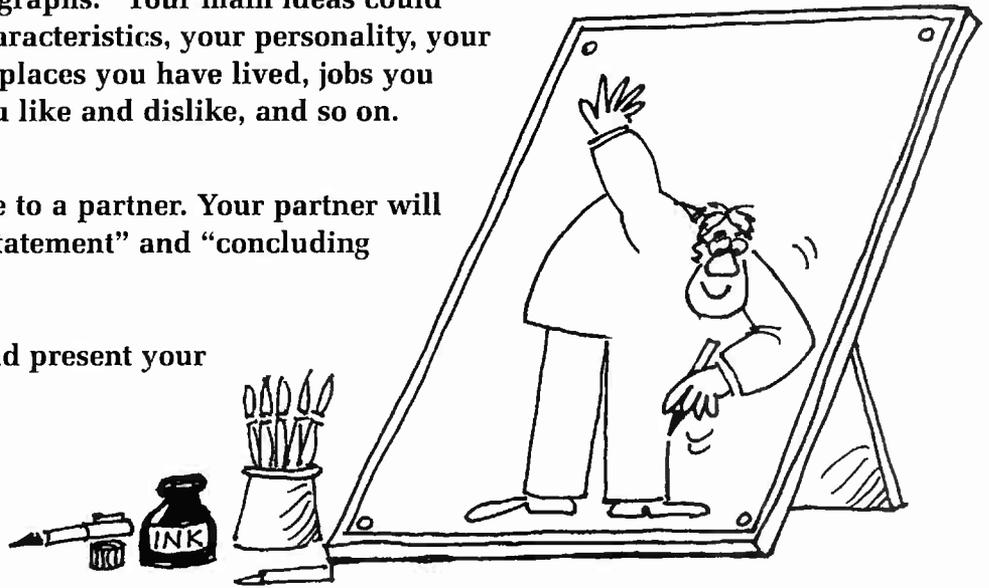

- I. The California gold rush changed San Francisco in ways that we can still see today.
- II. History of the gold rush
 - A. 1848
 1. Gold was discovered near San Francisco
 2. The U.S. president tells the country there's gold in California
 - B. 1864: the gold rush ends
 - C. 1849: the gold rush begins as people from all over the world go to California to look for gold. Gold is very easy to find.
 - D. 1850s: gold becomes more difficult to find; big, expensive machines are now needed to find gold
 - E. Gold rushes in other countries
 1. Australia (1851–53)
 2. South Africa (1884)
 3. Canada (1897–98)
- III. Effects on San Francisco today
 - A. People still come to San Francisco hoping to get rich
 1. Computer industry
 - B. Sightseeing is very popular in San Francisco
 - C. San Francisco is still an expensive city
 1. Houses and land
 2. Food & clothing
 3. Many new fast-food restaurants sell cheap hamburgers

 - E. Technological development is still important
 - F. There is no gold mining today
 - G. Character of San Francisco today
- IV. Changes in California in the 1800s
 - A. Population increased—more than 40,000 people moved to California in 1848–50
 - B. Everything became more expensive
 1. Houses and land
 - C. Problems with crime and violence
 - D. Technology to find gold improved
- V. The special personality of San Francisco can be traced in part to the famous gold rush of the 1800s.

- 6 Look at the thesis statement and topic sentences you wrote in Unit 8, exercise 8 on page 62. Write an outline for your essay. Then write the essay.
- 7 Exchange the essay you wrote for exercise 6 above with a partner. As you read your partner's essay, write an outline of the main ideas, supporting points, and details. Your partner will outline your essay. Discuss the outlines.

Review

- 8 Write a simple outline of yourself or your life. First, outline only the "body paragraphs." Your main ideas could include physical characteristics, your personality, your habits, your family, places you have lived, jobs you have had, things you like and dislike, and so on.
- 9 Explain your outline to a partner. Your partner will then add a "thesis statement" and "concluding statement."
- 10 Join another pair and present your complete outlines.

10 Introductions and Conclusions

In this unit, you will learn about ...

- the purpose of an introduction.
- types of information in introductions.
- the purpose of a conclusion.
- techniques for writing conclusions.

○ The importance of introductions and conclusions

Unit 8 explained that the introduction and the conclusion are two of the three main parts of an essay. Without an introduction and a conclusion, an essay is just a group of paragraphs. The introduction and the conclusion work together to make the topic and main ideas of the essay clear to the reader.

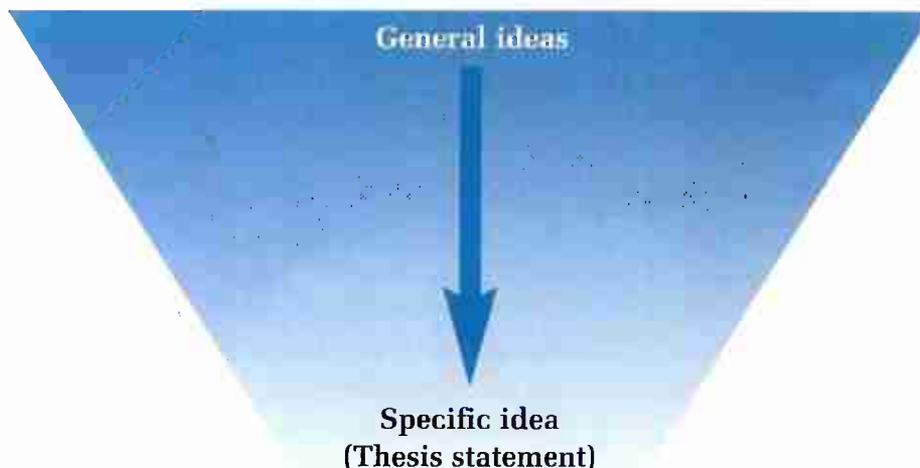

The introduction

○ What is an introduction?

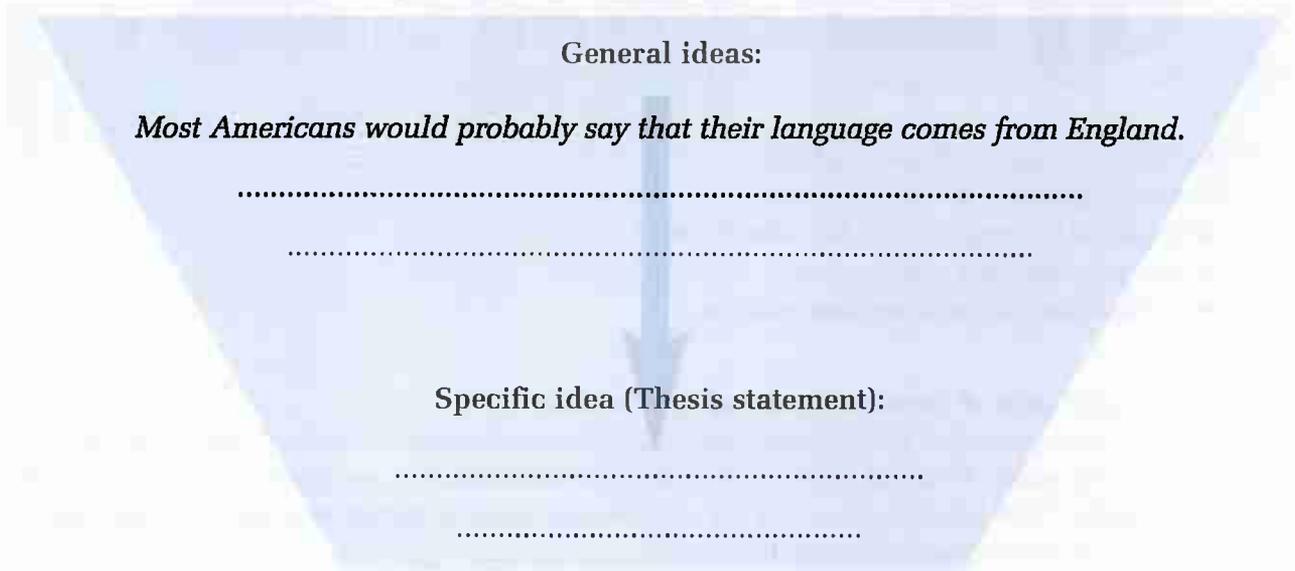

The first paragraph of an essay, as you learned in Unit 8, is called the introduction. The introduction ...

- is usually five to ten sentences.
- catches the reader's interest.
- gives the general topic of the essay.
- gives background information about the topic.
- states the main point (the thesis statement) of the essay.

The introduction is often organized by giving the most general ideas first and then leading to the most specific idea, which is the thesis statement, like this:

- 1 Read the introduction to the essay in Unit 8, exercise 1 on page 57. Complete this diagram.

2 How to write a strong introduction

A strong introduction ...

- introduces the topic clearly.
- gives several sentences of information about the topic.
- states the thesis (the main idea) of the essay.

Any of the following will make an introduction weak:

- It doesn't give enough information about the topic or gives too much information about it.
- It talks about too many different topics.
- It does not state a clear thesis.

- 2 Read and discuss the following introductions with a partner. Mark the strong introductions with a check (✓). Mark the weak introductions with an X. What could the writers do to make the weak introductions strong?

Family structure has changed a lot in the last fifty years in Asia. The decrease in the number of extended families and nuclear families has caused several social changes.

The number of businesses using the Internet for selling products has increased greatly in recent years. Shoppers, too, are using the Internet in greater numbers to buy all types of products, such as books, cameras, and clothing. Although e-business has become popular, there are certain risks involved in Internet shopping that are a concern for both businesses and consumers.

c.

Stargazing—looking at the stars—is something everyone should try. I love it. When looking at the night sky, most people observe that the moon, planets, and stars move from the east side of the sky to the west over a period of several hours. In fact, this movement is actually the movement of the Earth rotating on its axis. In addition, as the Earth revolves around the sun throughout the year, different stars are visible at different times.

When the first recordings of country music were made in the 1920s, the only people who listened to them were people who lived on farms and ranches or in small towns in rural America. That's why they called it country music. The farms raised sheep, goats, cows, and a variety of grains, such as corn and wheat. By the middle of the twentieth century, things had changed. You might even have heard a country band in New York City. New York was already becoming a very popular tourist destination. The Statue of Liberty was a favorite place to visit. Today, you'll hear American country music in Tokyo and Taipei, Bangkok and Brussels, Moscow and Munich. Nowadays, country singers like Garth Brooks and Shania Twain are known around the world. With its roots in the folk music of Europe and the traditional songs of Africa, country music has become a global phenomenon.

Adjusting to another culture's food can be a challenge for many travelers. The geography of a country can greatly affect the typical foods that are eaten by its people.

Types of information

How to make an introduction interesting

To make an introductory paragraph interesting for the reader, you can include ...

- interesting facts or statistics.
- a personal story or example.
- an interesting quotation.

- 3 Read the three introductions in Unit 8, exercise 3 on page 58 again. What types of information does each introductory paragraph contain?
- 4 Look at the introduction of the essay you wrote for Unit 9, exercise 6 on page 70. With a partner, rewrite the introduction, making changes to improve it.

The conclusion

The importance of a conclusion

The conclusion is the final paragraph of the essay. A good concluding paragraph ...

- summarizes the main points of the essay.
- restates the thesis (using different words).
- makes a final comment about the essay's main idea.
- may emphasize an action that you would like the reader to take.

Don't introduce new ideas in a conclusion. A conclusion only restates or gives further commentary on ideas discussed in the essay.

- 5 Look at the essay in Unit 8, exercise 1 on page 57 again. Answer these questions.

a. Does the conclusion use any of the four techniques described above? Which ones?

b. Which sentence in the conclusion restates the thesis (from the introduction)?

6 Match each of these introduction thesis statements with its rewritten version for a conclusion.

- 7 Read paragraph a in Unit 8, exercise 3 on page 58 again. Choose the best concluding paragraph, below.

Americans eat many different kinds of food, but the typical diet of many people includes eating a lot of fast food. The popularity of hamburger and pizza restaurants has increased greatly over the years. As a result of this diet, many Americans have food-related health problems. To create a healthier society, people should learn about eating a good diet and should teach their children to do the same.

Clearly, it is difficult to say that there is one type of American food. Every region of the country has its own favorite dishes and cooking styles based on the ethnic influences in that region. From Native Americans and the first European settlers to present-day immigrants, the cuisine of the U.S.A. continues to change with its changing population.

People who have come from other countries to live in the United States have brought traditions and customs with them and added to American culture. It is possible to find restaurants from all different ethnic backgrounds, especially in larger cities around the country. Immigrants may also maintain their traditions by building places to practice their religion, such as mosques, temples, and churches. By continuing to follow some of their customs and beliefs, immigrants can remain in touch with their past while also living a new life in a new country.

- 8 Look at the conclusion of the essay you wrote for Unit 9, exercise 6 on page 70. With a partner, rewrite the conclusion, making changes to improve it.

Unity and Coherence

In this unit, you will learn ...

- the importance of unity in essay writing.
- how to edit an essay for unity.
- the importance of coherence in essay writing.
- methods of creating coherence.

Writing effective essays

You've already learned that an essay should be organized into an introduction, a body, and a conclusion. The next step is to make sure that all three parts of the essay work together to explain your topic clearly.

Unity in writing

What is unity?

Unity in writing is the connection of all ideas to a single topic. In an essay, all ideas should relate to the thesis statement, and the supporting ideas in a body paragraph should relate to the topic sentence.

Read the essay on page 79 about Chinese medicine. Then do these tasks.

- a. Underline the thesis statement with two lines.
- b. Underline each topic sentence with one line.
- c. List the supporting ideas in each body paragraph on a separate piece of paper.
- d. After you have finished, review the topic sentences and supporting ideas. With a partner, discuss how the topic sentences relate to the thesis statement and how the supporting sentences relate to the topic sentences. Is the essay unified?

Next Time, Try Chinese Medicine

The last time I had a cold, a friend suggested that instead of taking the usual cold medicines, I visit the traditional Chinese doctor in our city. Although I knew nothing about Chinese medicine, I decided to try it. When I walked in to the Chinese doctor's office, I was amazed. It was not at all like my usual doctor's. There were shelves up to the ceiling full of glass containers filled with hundreds of different dried plants and other things I could not identify. Could this really be a doctor's office? It seemed very strange to me. When I met the doctor, he explained that Chinese medicine is thousands of years old. The plants in the jars in his office were herbs. These herbs could be mixed together to make medicines. He explained the philosophy of Chinese medicine. The philosophy of traditional Chinese medicine is not the same as the philosophy of modern medicine, but it is useful for curing many health problems.

Modern medicine focuses on illness. If a patient with a cough visits a modern doctor, then the doctor will give the patient a medicine to stop the cough. If the patient also has a fever, the doctor may give a different medicine to stop the fever. For every person with a cough, the doctor will probably recommend the same cough medicine. The philosophy of modern medicine is to stop problems like coughing and fever as quickly as possible. Western doctors usually see illness as an enemy. They use medicines like weapons to fight diseases.

Chinese medicine, in contrast, has a different philosophy. Instead of focusing on a patient's health problems, Chinese medicine tries to make the patient's whole body well again. Specifically, doctors of Chinese medicine believe that inside people, there are two types of energy. The first type of energy, called "yin," is quiet and passive. The other type of energy, called "yang," is active. When these two energies are in equal balance, a person is healthy. When there is an imbalance—too much yin, for example—a person becomes unhealthy. A doctor of Chinese medicine doesn't try to stop a person's cough by giving a cough medicine. Instead, the doctor gives a mixture of herbs that will restore balance in the patient's body. As a result, when the body is in balance, the cough will stop naturally.

The Chinese doctor's herbs seemed strange to me at first, but they made me feel better. My cold wasn't cured instantly, but I felt healthy again after a few days. For a very serious health problem, I would probably visit a modern hospital, but the next time I catch a cold, I am going back to the Chinese doctor. Chinese medicine definitely works for some health problems.

Editing an essay for unity

➤ Keeping unity in an essay

One way to keep unity in an essay is to edit the outline for ideas that are not relevant to the thesis statement or topic sentences, as you learned in Unit 9. Likewise, after you have written the essay, it is helpful to review the text and look for ideas that do not relate to the thesis or the topic sentences.

- 2 Read this thesis statement and body paragraphs. The writer has begun to cross out sentences that do not belong. There is still one large piece of the text that should be removed because it isn't relevant to the thesis. Can you find it? Compare your answer with a partner. Then look at the edited version in exercise 6 on page 85.

Thesis statement: Sign language, the language used by many deaf people, has a 500-year history.

The first sign language for deaf people was developed in Europe in the 1500s. In Spain, a man named Pedro de Ponce was the first person to teach deaf children using sign language. Another Spaniard, Juan Pablo de Bonet, was the first person to write a book on teaching sign language to deaf people. ~~Most of his students were from rich families.~~ Another important teacher who influenced the development of sign language was a Frenchman named Abbé de L'Épée. L'Épée understood that deaf people could communicate without speech. He started to learn the signs used by a group of deaf people in Paris. Using these signs, he developed a more complete French sign language. ~~L'Épée also taught religion classes.~~ Another Frenchman, Louis Braille, also lived during this time. He invented a system of reading and writing for blind people, using raised bumps that can be felt with the fingers. In Germany, a man named Samuel Heinicke was another important teacher of the deaf during this time. However, he did not use sign language for instruction. Instead, he preferred to teach the deaf to understand other people by looking carefully at other people's mouths when they spoke. This is called lip or speech reading.

Speech reading became a popular way of teaching deaf in the United States in the mid-1800s. Alexander Graham Bell, who invented the telephone, was one of the strongest supporters of teaching deaf people to do speech reading. Bell became interested in deafness and teaching deaf people. With his interest in science and the production of sound, he focused on ways of helping the deaf communicate with listening tools and speech reading. He eventually opened a training school for teachers of the deaf.

~~Not much is known about the use of sign language among deaf people in the United States before the 1800's.~~ The early 1800s were an important period in the development of American Sign Language. In 1815, a man named Thomas Gallaudet became interested in teaching deaf people. He traveled to Europe to study ways of communicating with deaf people. He was twenty-seven years old at this time, and he studied at a school for deaf students in Paris for several months. In 1817, Gallaudet returned to the United States, and he brought with him Laurent Clerc, a deaf sign language teacher from Paris. Gallaudet started the first school for the deaf, and Clerc became the first sign language teacher in the U.S. ~~The school, called American School for the Deaf, still exists in Hartford, Connecticut.~~ American Sign Language developed from the mixture of signs used by deaf Americans and French Sign Language. Today, it is used by more than 500,000 deaf people in the United States and Canada. ~~About twenty million people in the United States have hearing problems, and about two million of these are deaf.~~

Coherence in writing

Coherence is related to unity. Ideas that are arranged in a clear and logical way are coherent. When a text is unified and coherent, the reader can easily understand the main points.

As you learned in Unit 9, creating an outline helps make a well-organized essay. When organizing your ideas, think about what type of organization is the best for your topic or essay type. Here are some examples of types of writing and good ways to organize them.

Type of writing

Chronology (historical events, personal narratives, processes)

Description

Classification

Comparison / contrast

Argumentation / persuasion and cause / effect

Type of organization

Order by time or order of events / steps

Order by position, size, and shape of things

Group ideas and explain them in a logical order

Organize in point-by-point or block style

Order from least important to most important

- 3 Look again at the essay in exercise 1 on page 79. What type of organizational pattern does the essay use? How do you know? What about the text in exercise 2 on pages 80 and 81?

Cohesive devices

➤ What is a cohesive device?

Cohesive devices are words and phrases that connect sentences and paragraphs together, creating a smooth flow of ideas. In this unit, we'll look at transitions, pronoun references, and repetition of key ideas.

Transitions

Pronoun references

Repetition of key ideas

☞ Transitions

As you've learned in previous units, there are many transition words and phrases in English that are used to connect sentences together or relate ideas to one another. Here are several types of writing and some common transitions that are used with them.

Chronology	Comparison	Contrast	Additional information	Examples	Cause and effect	Concluding ideas
before after next since first, second while when	likewise compared to similarly as ... as and	however on the other hand but yet in spite of in contrast although instead	and also in addition in fact furthermore moreover Another ... is/was	for example in general generally for instance specifically in particular	therefore so thus as a result since because	in conclusion in summary finally therefore to conclude to summarize

4 Use transitions from the list above, or others that you know, to connect these sentences taken from the essay about Chinese medicine on page 79. When you have finished, compare your answers with the essay.

1. of focusing on a patient's health problems, Chinese medicine tries to make the patient's whole body well again. 2. , doctors of Chinese medicine believe that inside people, there are two types of energy. The first type of energy, called "yin," is quiet and passive. The other type of energy, called "yang," is active. ... When there is an imbalance—too much yin, 3. —a person becomes unhealthy. A doctor of Chinese medicine doesn't try to stop a person's cough by giving a cough medicine. 4. , the doctor gives a mixture of herbs that will restore balance in the patient's body. 5. , when the body is in balance, the cough will stop naturally.

☞ Pronoun reference

Two sentences can be connected by the use of a pronoun. A pronoun (he, she, it, they, etc.) takes the place of a noun (a person, place, thing, or idea) or a noun phrase (several words that refer to a person, place, thing, or idea). Look at the following example taken from the essay on sign language:

American Sign Language developed from the mixture of signs used by deaf Americans and French Sign Language. Today, it is used by more than 500,000 deaf people in the United States and Canada.

The pronoun it refers back to the subject, American Sign Language, and connects the two sentences together.

5 For each of the italicized pronouns in this passage, identify the noun or noun phrase to which it refers. Write your answers on the lines below the text.

Montreal, one of Canada's largest cities, is a popular tourist destination for several reasons. First, the city has a beautiful location. ^a*It* sits on an island in the middle of the St. Lawrence River. In addition, Montreal is both modern and historic. There are many luxury hotels, ^b*it* has a clean and efficient subway system, and visitors can find a wide variety of shops and restaurants, especially downtown. The oldest area of the town, the Vieux Montreal, is very beautiful because many of ^c*its* oldest buildings were protected as areas of the city were rebuilt or developed. The most interesting thing about Montreal may be ^d*its* French quality. Approximately two-thirds of the people living in or near Montreal are of French origin, and ^e*they* speak French as well as English. In addition to the strong French influence, there are large groups of people from Germany, Greece, Italy, Hungary, the West Indies, and China living ^f*there*. All of ^g*this* makes Montreal a great place to visit.

- a. it =
- b. it =
- c. its =
- d. its =
- e. they =
- f. there =
- g. this =

➤ Repetition of key nouns or ideas

Another way to connect ideas in an essay is by repeating important words and phrases. This will help the reader remember the main ideas in the text.

Modern medicine focuses on illness. If a patient with a cough visits a modern doctor, then the doctor will give the patient a medicine to stop the cough. If the patient also has a fever, the doctor may give a different medicine to stop the fever. For every person with a cough, the doctor will probably recommend the same cough medicine. The philosophy of modern medicine is to stop problems like coughing and fever as quickly as possible.

6 Read these revised paragraphs from the essay on sign language. Underline examples of transition use, pronoun reference, and repetition of key words. Then compare your answers with a partner.

Ho Chi Minh City

Ho Chi Minh City, in Vietnam, is a fascinating destination for travelers to Southeast Asia. It is located on the Mekong River. It was once an important trading center for the French in Southeast Asia. The influence of French culture can still be felt. Many people, especially the older generations, learned French in school and still can speak it very well. Some cafés serve French-style bread and pastries in Ho Chi Minh City. Expensive hotels and restaurants serve French food. Many of the buildings in the city are built in French style. The Vietnamese and the French fought. The French eventually left the country. There are museums and monuments documenting the country's long—and often bloody—history. If you are looking for a unique city to visit in Southeast Asia, Ho Chi Minh City is an attractive choice.

- 8 Write an outline for an essay on one of the following topics or on a topic of your choice.
- a. health and medicine in your country
 - b. an important problem in your country
 - c. the importance of technology in society
- 9 Edit your outline for unity and coherence, then write the essay.
- 10 Exchange the essay you wrote in exercise 9 above with a partner. Look for the use of the cohesive devices you have learned about in this unit.

12 Essays For Examinations

In this unit, you will learn ...

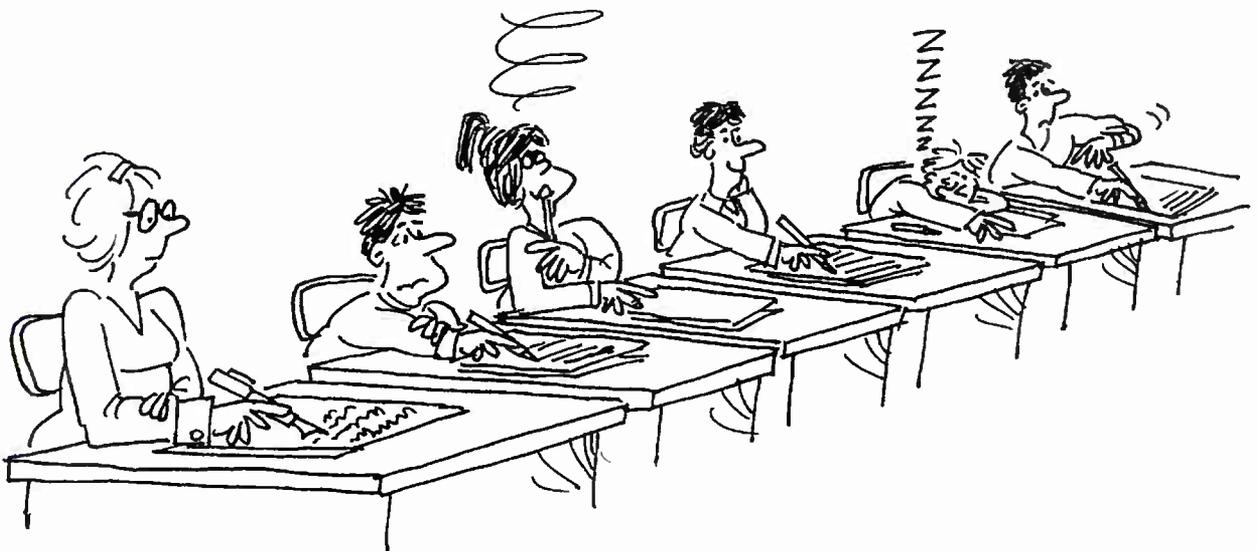

- common instructions for essay tests.
- techniques for writing timed essays and managing time.

Essay tests

You may be asked to write essays for tests in your classes, or on entrance examinations for colleges and universities in English-speaking countries. You will have to write essays if you take the TOEFL (Test of English as a Foreign Language), the MELAB (Michigan English Language Assessment Battery), the Cambridge examinations (University of Cambridge Local Examinations Syndicate), or the IELTS (International English Language Testing System). These essays are written at one sitting, in a limited amount of time.

Timed essays

- I You probably already have some experience and ideas that will be useful to you when you write timed essays. Discuss the following questions with a partner or group.
- Have you ever written timed essays in your own language? Describe the situation(s).
 - Have you ever written timed essays in English? Describe the situation(s).
 - In what situations will you write timed essays in English in the future?
 - What are some ways that writing a timed essay is different from writing an essay without a time limit? Make a list. Then look at your list and say which aspects might be challenging for you.
 - Do you know any good techniques for writing timed essays? Share them with your partner or group.

Instructions for timed essays

➤ How to write good timed essays

- Check to see how many questions you must answer. Some exams may say Choose three of the following five topics. You will not receive a higher score if you write more than three essays—your instructor will probably just grade the first three.
- Check how many points the essay is worth. On a 100-point test, an essay worth twenty points should be longer and more detailed than one worth five points. Spend more time on the longer essays.
- Pay close attention to the instructions for each individual essay question. Be especially careful with questions that have several parts. It is helpful to underline or circle key instructions so that you do not leave anything out.

Example:

Which effect of the California gold rush do you think had the biggest impact on the character of San Francisco today? Use examples to illustrate your answer.

- Use some of your time for planning (gathering and organizing ideas) and for proofreading your finished essay.
- Always write in complete sentences and pay careful attention to grammar and spelling. Don't experiment with structures or words you are not confident about using correctly.
- Write neatly. Instructors may give lower grades to essays they cannot read easily.

➤ Common instructions on essay tests compare / contrast

As you learned in Unit 6, compare / contrast paragraphs talk about similarities and differences. You can write one paragraph to compare and another to contrast, or compare and contrast a different idea related to your topic in each paragraph.

discuss

This broad term invites you to describe different ideas about a topic. Organize your discussion around a central thesis statement.

explain, show how

These instructions ask you to show cause and effect. You may also find instructions like these for a problem / solution essay, as discussed in Unit 7.

show, describe, use examples

Make sure that you provide specific details to support your points, as you practiced in Unit 3.

This word asks you to make a choice. Often a question with which will also ask you to defend your choice. For example, Which solution would you recommend, and why? Make sure that you clearly indicate your choice in your answer. Don't try to write about each possibility.

- 2 Underline the most important part of the instructions in these essay questions. Discuss your answers with a partner or group. Talk about what kinds of information you would include in your answer.
- Compare and contrast public and private high school education in your country.
 - Think of a story you have read which has also been made into a movie. Describe the differences between the two versions.
 - Show how the rise in popularity of communication by cell phone has changed the ways in which young people communicate.
 - Discuss three results of the Norman conquest of Great Britain in 1066. Which do you feel was the most important?
 - Which environmental problem is the most significant in your community? Explain how your community can solve this problem.

Answering directly

Essay test short cuts

Time is limited, so it is a good idea to take certain “short cuts” on essay tests. Most importantly, you should write a very short introduction—just one or two sentences is OK—which includes your thesis statement. Do not include the background information you might normally include in an essay. Make sure that your thesis statement directly answers the question. Your answer should show that you know the information that the test asks about. Extra information or any information that is not related to your topic will not help your grade. Your conclusion should also be brief.

3 Underline the key words of this essay question.

Which effect of the California gold rush do you think had the biggest impact on the character of San Francisco today?

San Francisco is a fascinating city with a very special character. Each year, thousands of tourists from the United States and other countries visit San Francisco to enjoy its unique style. Many important events contributed to the character of San Francisco, including the California gold rush, the earthquake of 1906, immigration from Mexico, and the rise of the computer industry. But the gold rush was the most important of these events.

The effect of the California gold rush that had the biggest impact on the character of San Francisco today was the damage done by the mining to the rivers and surrounding land.

Experts agree that the California gold rush had an impact on the state of California. In particular, San Francisco was affected by the gold rush. For example, many people came to San Francisco hoping to get rich during the late 1880s. It was a very exciting time.

The California gold rush affected the character of San Francisco in many ways: the population increased, the crime rate rose, land prices went up, rivers were damaged, and people seeking adventure chose San Francisco as their destination.

The character of San Francisco as an adventurous city, a place that attracts risk-takers and thrill-seekers, is the most important effect of the California gold rush of the 1880s.

Managing your time

Write a five-minute outline

Before you write a test essay, write a quick outline. This is the easiest way to be sure that your answer includes all the necessary information and that you don't waste your time with unnecessary information. With practice, you should be able to write a brief outline in no more than five minutes, including the thesis statement and main ideas. Before you write anything else, write your outline at the top of the page. If you run out of time to finish your essay, your instructor will still be able to see your main ideas, and will know that you had a problem with time and not with the content.

Topic: In college, would you rather live alone, with your family, or with a roommate? Give reasons to support your answer.

Sample outline 1:

- I. I would rather live with my family to save money.
- II. No rent
- III. Save money on food
- IV. Don't have to pay for utilities
 - A. Electricity
 - B. Water
 - C. Phone
- V. Conclusion: If I save on my living expenses, I will have enough money to pay for tuition and books.

Sample outline 2:

- I. Living alone is the best way for me to learn independence while I am in college.
- II. Will learn to take care of myself
 - A. Cook my own food
 - B. Take care of housework and laundry
- III. Will learn to budget my money
- IV. Conclusion: College is a time not only to study, but to learn to be an independent adult. Living alone will help me learn how to handle this responsibility.

- 5 Write a five-minute outline for each of these topics. Write a thesis statement, two or more main ideas, and a conclusion. When you have finished, compare your outlines in groups or with the whole class.
- a. Some people like to organize their own trips, and others like to travel on a professionally organized tour. Which do you prefer, and why?
 - b. Your community is considering building a new shopping mall in the center of town. Do you support or oppose this plan? Give specific reasons in your answer.
 - c. Discuss why music is an important part of people's lives.
 - d. What do you feel will be the most popular career choices for young people in your country in the next five years? Explain your answer with examples.
 - e. Compare and contrast sending personal letters by e-mail and by regular mail. Which do you prefer, and why?

➤ Write your topic sentences first

Some students like to first write the topic sentence for each main point on the answer sheet, leaving space to go back and fill in the details. If you choose this method, you can add information and examples to each paragraph until you finish or your time runs out. If you run out of time, you may leave out some details, but you won't leave out any main points.

- 6 For one of the five-minute outlines you wrote for exercise 5 on page 92, write a topic sentence for each main point.

Checking your work

➤ Check your work

After you finish your essay, or at least five minutes before your time is up, take some time to check your work. Read the essay from beginning to end. Although you cannot read your essay out loud (unless you are alone), try to “hear” what it would sound like in your head.

- Did you answer all parts of the question?
- Is your essay unified? Cross out any unrelated ideas.
- Are words spelled correctly and written neatly?
- Do your sentences sound clear? If you are not sure if your grammar is correct, try to say your ideas another way.
- Did you erase or cross out any mistakes or stray marks?

- 7 You have already spent five minutes writing an outline for the topics in exercise 5 on page 92. Now choose one of those topics and spend another twenty minutes writing the essay. Then take five minutes to check your work. Then share your essay with a partner or small group.

Review

- 8 Work in groups of four. Divide into pairs. Pair A, look at the essay on English vocabulary in Unit 8, exercise 1 on page 57. Pair B, look at the essay on Chinese medicine in Unit 11, exercise 1 on page 79. Do the following:
- a. In pairs, write two or three essay questions about the information presented. Give your essay questions to the other pair.
 - b. Individually, choose one of the questions the other pair wrote for you and write an answer based on the information given in the essay. You may use your textbook. Write a thirty-minute essay in this way: First, write a five-minute outline. Then, write your essay for twenty minutes. Finally, spend five minutes checking your work.
 - c. Rejoin your group of four. Take turns reading your essays aloud. After one person reads the essay, the other group members should identify the thesis statement and main ideas. Tell the writer something you liked about the essay.

Sample essay: brainstorming

Assignment: Write an argument essay of 2–3 pages. First, choose a topic and brainstorm some ideas. Then, organize your ideas into an outline. After you have checked your outline carefully, write the first draft of your essay. Exchange drafts with a classmate, and give and receive peer feedback. Using those comments to guide you, prepare a final draft.

Remember: all final papers must be typed and double-spaced! Please turn in your brainstorming, outline, and first draft together with your final draft.

Don't Support Nuclear Energy!

Can you add some kind of introduction before giving your thesis statement?

Even though it can provide the world with a source of electricity, nuclear power is not a good energy source because it is too expensive, the materials used in the power plants are not safe, and there is a great possibility of accidents.

Good thesis statement—very clear

Can you add a topic sentence to this paragraph?

First of all, nuclear fuel is expensive. It must be taken out of the ground and transported great distances. As fuels are used up, they will become even more expensive, just as oil and gas have become more expensive. In addition, nuclear Europe, Scandinavia, and even Japan. Human error was responsible for power plant accidents in Kola, Russia (1991) and Tokaimura, Japan (1999). There is no way we can guarantee that workers will not make mistakes again in the future.

Even natural disasters can affect nuclear power plants. An earthquake in Bulgaria in 1977 damaged the nuclear power plant in Kozloduy, and a big storm in the Pacific Ocean in 1981 washed nuclear waste out into the ocean.

It is true that oil and gas cannot supply all of the world's energy needs much longer. However, we cannot replace them with an energy source that is too expensive and is dangerous from the time the fuels are taken out of the ground and even after the plant is running.

Can you give some comment about this?

I think you need some kind of concluding sentence. What do you recommend instead of nuclear power?

Don't Support Nuclear Energy!

These days, it seems like everyone is worried about how the world will meet its energy demands when we have run out of oil and natural gas. Scientists and researchers are investigating such power sources as solar energy, wind energy, and even energy from hot rocks beneath the earth's surface. However, there is one energy source that I believe should not be developed any further. In fact, I believe that we should stop using it as soon as possible. Even though it can provide the world with a source of electricity, nuclear power is not a good energy source because it is too expensive, the materials used in the power plants are not safe, and there is a great possibility of accidents.

Nuclear power is not an economical energy source. First of all, nuclear fuel is expensive. It must be taken out of the ground and transported great distances. As fuels are used up, they will become even more expensive, just as oil and gas have. In addition, nuclear power plants cost a lot of money to build and to operate because of the great care that must be taken with safety. Because the people who work in nuclear power plants must be highly trained specialists, salaries for workers are also high.

In addition to being expensive, nuclear materials are not safe. When uranium is taken out of the ground, radioactive gas is released. This is not safe for the miners. Uranium itself also is not safe because of its high radioactivity. Because of this, people who work with nuclear fuels are at risk of cancer. As nuclear power plants run, they create nuclear waste, which also is dangerous. It is very radioactive, and it is difficult to dispose of or even to store safely. No town wants nuclear waste buried nearby, and for good reason.

Most significantly, there is always a possibility of nuclear accidents. The power plants themselves can fail when they get old or if they are not built correctly. The machinery can malfunction, too. In 1979, problems at the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant in the United States resulted in radioactive materials escaping into the nearby community. More recently, equipment failures were responsible for accidents in power plants in Tarapur, India in 1992, and Darlington, Canada, also in 1992. Both of these accidents led to leaks of radioactive material.

It is not just buildings and equipment which can fail, but people, too. Workers at nuclear power plants can make mistakes. Perhaps the most famous of these incidents occurred at Chernobyl, in the former U.S.S.R., in 1986. Radioactivity from the Chernobyl accident was recorded as far away as Eastern Europe, Scandinavia, and even Japan. Human error has been responsible for numerous power plant accidents. Some recent well-known examples include Kola, Russia, where workers accidentally caused an equipment failure in 1991, and Tokaimura, Japan, in 1999. There is no way we can guarantee that workers will not make mistakes again in the future.

Even natural disasters can affect nuclear power plants. An earthquake in Bulgaria in 1977 damaged the nuclear power plant in Kozloduy, and a big storm in the Pacific Ocean in 1981 washed nuclear waste from Moruroa out into the ocean. Of course, it is impossible for people to predict or to prevent events like this. Different types of severe weather or natural disasters can strike almost anywhere in the world.

It is true that oil and gas cannot supply all of the world's energy needs much longer. However, we cannot replace them with an energy source that is expensive and dangerous, from the time the fuels are taken out of the ground to even after the plant is running. Instead, we must develop cheaper and, most importantly, safer types of energy to power our world.

Punctuation

Here are some common rules for using punctuation in your writing. Of course, this is not a complete list. If you have further questions, check a grammar book or ask your teacher.

➤ Capitalization

Always capitalize:

- the first word of every sentence.
- days of the week (Tuesday) and months of the year (April).
- the first letter (only) of the names of people and places (Bangkok, Ayaka Seo).
- the main words of a title, but not articles (a, an, the) or prepositions (words like to, of, for) or conjunctions (and, but), unless they are the first word in the title:
The Three Things I Do in the Morning

➤ Period (.)

A period comes at the end of a statement:

An electronic dictionary is more convenient than a paper one.

If the sentence ends with an abbreviation, don't use more than one period:

RIGHT: My mother just finished her Ph.D.

WRONG: My mother just finished her Ph.D..

➤ Comma (,)

Use a comma to separate a series of three or more items:

I take a dictionary, a notebook, and some paper to class every day.

Use a comma before words like and, but, or, so, and yet to separate two parts of a sentence that each have a subject and a verb.

She needed some work experience, so she got a part-time job.

He did not study at all, but he still got an 87 on the test.

Use a comma after an introductory word or expression, such as However, Therefore, and In conclusion:

However, the high price of electric cars means that most people cannot afford one.

➤ Quotation marks (" ")

Use quotation marks when you type or write the title of a book or movie:

"Hamlet" was written by Shakespeare.

When you use a word processor, you can use italics instead:

Hamlet was written by Shakespeare.

Use quotation marks to show the exact words someone spoke or wrote:

The professor announced, "We're going to have an exam next week."

Shakespeare wrote, "All the world's a stage."

Do not use quotation marks if you're reporting what another person said:

The professor said that we should study hard this week.

Note: That, as used in the sentence above, usually indicates that the remark is not a direct quotation.

➤ Punctuation when using quotation marks

If you are using expressions like he said or the girl remarked after the quotation, then use a comma and not a period at the end of the quoted sentence:

“We’re going to have an exam next week,” announced the professor.

Use a period if the quoted sentence comes at the end:

The professor announced, “We’re going to have an exam next week.”

Notice how a comma is used after announced, above, to introduce the quotation.

Periods and commas are placed inside quotation marks. Exclamation points and question marks may come inside or outside, depending on whether they are part of the quotation or part of the surrounding sentence:

“Do you know who wrote Hamlet?” asked the teacher.

Do you know who said “All the world’s a stage”?

➤ Quotation marks and capitalization

Capitalize the first letter of the word that begins a quotation. However, if an expression like she said interrupts the quotation and divides the sentence, then do not capitalize the first word of the part that finishes the quotation:

“Next week,” said the professor, “we are going to have an exam.”

The comma after week separates the quotation from the rest of the sentence.

Use a capital letter only if the second part is a new, complete sentence:

“We’ll have an exam next week,” explained the teacher. “It will take thirty minutes.”

➤ Advice for academic writing

The following are not usually used in academic writing, although they are fine in informal situations, such as letters to your friends.

- Parentheses that give information which is not part of your main sentence:

Cellular phones are useful (and besides, I think they look great).

If your idea is important, it should be in a sentence of its own. If it is not important, it should not be in your paper.

- The abbreviation etc. to continue a list. Instead, use a phrase like such as in your sentence:

Students in my university come from countries such as China, India, and Australia.

- Exclamation points (!). Instead, write strong sentences with plenty of details to show your reader your feelings:

Angel Falls is one of the most spectacular natural wonders you will ever see.

- An ellipsis (...) at the end of a sentence, to show that the sentence is not finished:

The professor said that I should study hard, so ...

Instead, finish your sentence:

The professor said that I should study, so I should not go to the party tonight.

I would appreciate any information you could provide about your program. I am interested in studying English for one semester, so I would like to know more about the courses your offer, the number of hours of study per week, and the tuition cost.

In addition, it would be helpful if you could provide information about housing. I am interested in learning as much as I can about the culture, so if it is possible, I would like to live with a family.

Thank you in advance for your time and help. I look forward to receiving more information about your program. ← Conclusion

Sample statement of purpose

○ What is a statement of purpose?

When you apply to a college or university in the United States for an undergraduate or graduate degree, you are often asked to write a one-page statement of purpose. This is a short essay that tells the university why you are applying, and also why you would be a good addition to their program. The essay below is from a Taiwanese student wishing to enter a Master's Degree (M.A.) program in Teaching English as a Second Language at Western Arizona University in the United States.

I have been interested in English since I was twelve, when my family took a trip to Australia. I thought then how useful and exciting it would be to talk to the people I met. It was not only the Australians who spoke English, but also other tourists we met who had traveled there from all over the world. Whether they were from Germany, Indonesia, or Brazil, their common language was English, and I wanted to share that language with them.

I worked hard at my English studies in junior high school and high school. I was a member of our school's English Conversation Club, and in my last year I was secretary of the club. I also took part in the national English Speech Contest for three years.

In college, I majored in English literature. I also took English conversation lessons at a private school two evenings a week. In addition, I made friends with some of the international students at my college, and we always spoke together in English. During my last two years at college, I took a part-time job tutoring elementary and junior high school students in English grammar and conversation.

Because of my long interest in English and my experience teaching English, I am sure that I would like to become an ESL teacher. I have chosen to study in the United States so that I can also learn about the culture of an English-speaking country. I have heard about Western Arizona University from other graduates, and I am impressed with the classes offered there and the quality of instruction. I think I would be a valuable addition to your ESL program because I could share my own experiences with learning English. I look forward to the opportunity to further my own knowledge of English and of American culture, and to meeting the challenges of both learning and teaching with the other students in your program.

COLLEGE writing

FROM PARAGRAPH TO ESSAY

To produce competent written assignments in English, students need to be able to

- generate ideas and organize them on paper
- create the various paragraph types that are used in writing assignments
- order and link paragraphs into cohesive and coherent essays.

COLLEGE WRITING provides students with

- a variety of group, pair and individual planning and writing tasks
- plenty of practice to help students master each stage of the writing process
- models of writing that are based on real assignments.

COLLEGE WRITING, for learners of American English, is a semi-academic writing course that takes college students from paragraph structuring to essay writing through a process approach. The areas covered include generating ideas, organizing, drafting, reviewing and revising. The back of this Student Book contains a collection of sample and reference material, including models of essay development and a punctuation guide.
